Post-War Program

Marine Corps Schools

BY MAJ. GEN. CLIFTON B. CATES, USMC
Commandant, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico

THE Marine Corps Schools comprise the combined general service educational institution of the Marine Corps. Their deduced mission is "to educate officers in the tactics and techniques of warfare, with particular emphasis upon amphibious operations, in order to provide competent commanders and staff officers for the field forces of the Marine Corps. A secondary mission of the Schools is to contribute to the development of the technique and doctrine of amphibious warfare."

Gen. Cates

The Marine Corps Schools are thus an extension of the Marine Corps' basic amphibious mission into the field of officer education, and within the structure of these Schools it is intended to provide progressive education for officers of the Corps in order that they may effectively take their place as members of the nation's only regularly constituted landing force. As the Marine Corps itself is a specialist organization, devoted primarily to the landing force aspects of the amphibious subject, so are the Marine Corps Schools a specialist educational organization devoted to providing Marine officers with a comprehensive education in their amphibious specialty.

The Marine Corps Schools include the following components which, in sum, are intended to provide a comprehensive system of officer education of a form specifically adapted to Marine Corps needs:

a. The Basic School. To instruct recently commissioned officers in those subjects pertaining to the duties and responsibilities of a Marine officer, ashore or afloat, and of a platoon commander in particular.

b. Amphibious Warfare School, Senior Course. To instruct field officers in command and staff duties in appropriate echelons of command within Fleet Marine Forces, with primary emphasis on advanced instruction in the doctrines and techniques of amphibious warfare.

c. Amphibious Warfare School, Junior Course. To instruct Majors and Captains in command and staff duties within a regimental combat team and an air group of Fleet Marine Forces, with particular emphasis upon the coordination of all supporting arms employed in amphibious warfare.

d. Communication Officers' School. To instruct Captains and Lieutenants in the duties of communication officers within the Fleet Marine Forces, ground and aviation, emphasizing communication in amphibious operations.

e. Field Artillery School. To instruct officers with previous field artillery experience.

Navy Scientific Development

Creation of a high echelon planning group within the office of the Chief of Naval Operations as coordinator of the Navy's scientific development program is under study in the Navy Department.

Such a group would succeed not only to the functions now supervised by Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy in his capacity as Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Special Weapons, but would extend its authority to cover future development of whatever technical advances are forthcoming as the result of research.

Admiral Blandy is slated to leave his present post in December. In the meantime, Vice Adm. DeWitt C. Ramsey has been named coordinator until such time as planning is more fully crystallized. Rear Adm. Jerauld Wright, head of the Operational Readiness Section, is his deputy for

Gen. Eisenhower Views Future

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, USA, Chief of Staff, interviewed at a London press conference 11 Oct., discussed strategy of the Army of the future, the importance of the Arctic in the event of a future war, and expressed himself as being "more than satisfied" with occupation accomplishments in the United States Zone.

On any battlefield of the future, General Eisenhower said, will be seen a continuance of the trend of dispersion, mobility and highly increased fire power. He emphasized that he was "on the optimistic side" regarding avoiding future wars.

Following are excerpts from the press conference, which was held following General Eisenhower's acceptance of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Cambridge University:

Urge Publicity on War Dept. Promotion Plans

Representative Carl T. Durham (Dem.-N. C.), a member of the House Committee on Military Affairs, this week added his voice in support of the movement to give officers of the Army an opportunity to criticize and comment on the promotion and retirement plans the War Department proposes to present to the next Congress.

It is important that this be done, Representative Durham said, even if it is necessary to give publicity to plans that are only tentative. "With the expansion of the Army," Mr. Durham told THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, "and the projected taking into it of new officers they need to know what to expect in the matter of promotion to aid them in deciding whether they wish to accept a commission."

Already strongly in back of the proposal that the plan be publicized well in advance of submission to Congress are Senator Burnet R. Maybank (Dem.-S. C.), chairman of the subcommittee on retirement

New Officer "Plucking" Boards Set Up in Army

Regulations have been issued by the War Department establishing procedure for the removal from the active list of officers of the Regular Army whose retention is not considered to be in the best interests of the service.

The regulations parallel the procedure which would have been provided in the Army retirement bill which failed of passage at the last session of Congress.

However, the new forced elimination regulations are based on emergency legislation (Public 190) and will not be effective after official termination of the war. Therefore, even though the policy is now put into effect by administrative action, the War Department most likely will renew its request for permanent forced-elimination legislation at the next Congress. Concerning its intentions, the War Department this week informed THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL as follows:

"The War Department intends to consult with the appropriate committees and leadership of the Congress to determine whether such legislation will be introduced."

While the new regulations set no specific objectives as to the number of officers to be annually "plucked" out of the Active list, it is recalled that General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff, in testifying before the Military Affairs Committee at the last Congress said that while the normal rate of attrition is 3½ percent per year "studies have shown that to keep your Officer Corps at the very top level getting rid of every man you think you should not have, the attrition ought to be something greater, up to 5½ percent." On another occasion he said, "we ought to have, when we get all of our retirement and elimination laws in proper order, and elimination of at least four percent a year out of the Officer Corps, if you are going to have a vital organization." With an Army of 50,000 officers this would mean the forced retirements of between 750 and 1,000 officers over and above normal attrition for age, deaths, etc.

Inasmuch as there are new laws for the payment of officers "plucked" out, the War Department will operate under existing laws. Under these all those honorably separated are entitled to terminal leave. They are also entitled to retirement pay if over 15 years' service has been completed at the rate of 2½ percent of active pay multiplied by number of years' of commissioned service. Under the new regulations separations would be honorable, as no court martial procedure is involved. Apparently no provision is made for those with less than 15 years of service, either in the form of a lump-sum payment or otherwise.

The permanent "plucking" law which the War Department proposed at the last session, and which died with the Congress, provided payment upon removal from the active list as follows: if the officer has less than 7 years' service he would be discharged; if more than 7 and less than 10 years' service he would be discharged with six months' pay; if more

Nürnberg Trials

Washington Post—"The General Staff was a body whose essential functions were prima facie legitimate. It would scarcely be possible to hold a man criminally liable for taking a position in the high command of his country's armed forces. Moreover, Hitler and his gang were the war makers, not the General Staff."

New York World-Telegram—"Having established the right of the victor to sit in judgment of the vanquished, there can be no uniform justice. Many military men view this precedent with grave misgivings."

Philadelphia Record—"The four judges gave no reason for virtually acquitting the General Staff. Presumably, the judges felt that the German General Staff was doing only what the General Staff of any country does—preparing plans for war on orders from the civilian government."

Samuel Grafton, column in New York Post—"A great deal of simplicity departs from the ethics of the military life with these findings. Nürnberg definitely informs top officers everywhere that there is a supernatural authority even at the risk of defying national directives."

Duluth News Tribune—"Military men, even in the victorious nations, do not like the Jodl-Keitel results, claiming that it may set such a precedent that military men of any nation will not feel secure in waging war, as they are supposed to."

Baltimore Sun—"There may be some disposition to question the condemnation of Keitel and Jodl, who as soldiers, were required to obey."

Chicago Daily News—"Without the support of public opinion the verdicts can mean merely that it is had to be associated with the losing side in war."

New York Post—"If Keitel and Jodl are guilty, then so is the German General Staff. The verdict exonerating that body may cause uniformed men in Washington and London to breathe more easily; it is no solace to the millions of Europeans who suffered the criminality of Germany's organized war planners and makers."

Gen. Eisenhower Views Future (Continued From First Page)

U. S.-British Military

Q. "While you have been here, General, have you considered the possibility of beginning a scheme for the interchange of U. S. Army Officers with British Army Officers in the future?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I don't think we have attempted to lay out a specific plan on how we can do this in the future. We had some interchanges in the past. The practice was greatly intensified during the war but now it is for the Governments to decide just how far they intend to go. Both Governments support United Nations thoroughly and they will do nothing that will tend to weaken their support of that. But I feel whatever we do so far as the continuation of such relationships between the two countries is concerned, we should try to be an example within the United Nations. I am quite certain the military will carry out thoroughly whatever our Governments dictate."

Q. "There has been a lot of talk about possible integration of British and American Forces."

Gen. Eisenhower—"Integration?"

Q. "Interchangeable equipment, etc."

Gen. Eisenhower—"Of course, that talk is very natural. Within a quarter of a century we have fought two wars and have been closely associated. With common Theaters and common supply lines we quickly found out what a blessing it would have been to have had similar equipment, and of course similar procedure. If we were unfortunate enough to get into trouble again and we were on the same side that would be of great advantage. If we had to repeat our past experiences, the same type of equipment and staff procedure would be fine. But all of those things I should reemphasize fall into the hands of Governments and Soldiers implement plans and do not establish policy."

War Outlook

Q. "General, what are the prospects of our getting in trouble again?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I am on the optimistic side. Too many of us, seeing and experiencing the chaos of mind that comes after material chaos of war are apt to become pessimistic. I think it is true that no great country in the world today wants a global war. That is obvious. And if no nation wants a war, I think that with the operation of definite schemes whereby we can keep out of it, it is not hopeless. It is a long road and a discouraging one and at times we will not even get along among ourselves. We will differ with each other and with others. But I still say that I am on the optimistic side. I believe the world today is in better shape to begin this cooperation business and make it work. At least we have learned that even a victorious war is a very costly affair; costly in everything."

Ambassadorship

Q. "Have you been asked by the President to accept this London Post?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I have not been asked, but that does not mean that I know anything about the matter. I have not been asked anything. They even tell me that I was rumored for the nomination. I have no news on that at all. Not even a suspicion."

War Books

Q. "Would you care to tell us what old battles or campaigns were fought at the dinner last night?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"We went over a number of them. There were a few people there who had read some of the books that had been written. For myself, I have read none of them written on either side of the water. But they were not discussed in a critical vein. I wonder how even in this space of time some of the misconceptions could have arisen—authors being definite about statements—things they knew nothing about at all. And so it was a more or less general discussion of the comments, that have appeared about the war, rather than discussion of particular campaigns or battles."

Q. "Which one came back with you to the Hotel?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"My great friend, Lord Louis Mountbatten came back with me. He was Supreme Commander in Southeast Asia. He was always a great friend of mine. And we were merely comparing some of our many problems throughout the war. That is all."

Q. "How do you account for Mr. Ingersoll's criticisms of General Montgomery?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I have not read the book, but I have had in some meetings as this, certain statements of the book outlined to me. There is no accounting for it whatsoever. Looks like someone had to take a story and write about it as his mission in life. I have no explanation whatsoever because I understand that it is made to appear that the Field Marshal and I were constantly at odds. He was one of my warmest friends in the war and conversations were conducted on that basis. So I have no explanation of any of these accusations on one side of the fence or the other. The one thing that amazes me is that it appears to miss the outstanding things of this war as fought in the Mediterranean and Europe by ourselves—British and Americans. Here for once two great nations threw in everything they had, they didn't pick and quarrel with each other. It was a record almost unique in Allied operations, and I don't see why that is not the main story. There were differences in convictions and differences in strategic conceptions, and in those cases one man had to carry the responsibility, but for my part I never saw any difference in enthusiasm on the side of the American or on the British, certainly none based on nationality. There was never a case or time in the war when a man tried to appeal over my head to someone higher in the governments—never in the whole war."

Q. "General, you haven't started writing your own memoirs?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I have not. I always swore I never would. But sometimes I am tempted after people tell me what some others have said. I might not be able to write, but at least I could tell the truth. I think there have been some good accounts written. The only book I have so far gotten to read was the Field Marshal's account—I think called "From Alamein to Sangro," and I think it a very workman-like job of telling what happened. This is the only one I had a chance to read."

Future Armies

Q. "What is your conception, General, of armies in the next 20 years? Do you plan that far ahead?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"There is one thing that we have got facing us at the moment, and that is occupational jobs both for the British Army and our own. That is one place where the most modern weapons are useless to do the job and the soldier must do it. Insofar as the tactical army of the future is concerned, roughly, I should say this. No one yet knows what the application of these modern rockets and long-range weapons will be to the actual battlefield. I visualize the application more to material things such as cities. This inspires a great feeling of horror when we see civilization almost destroyed by destruction of cities. But on the actual battlefield I should believe you would see a continuance of the trend of dispersion, mobility and highly increased fire power, many more cross country vehicles to avoid congestion on the roads and vehicles capable of amphibious action going across streams, rivers, etc."

Occupation

Q. "From what you have seen, General, are you satisfied with the occupation job being done in the United States Zone?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"More than satisfied. This is what I think. British and Americans went into Germany having largely the same conception of what they wanted to do in the idea of a reeducation of a people. When you go back in your mind and realize what that place was when we met the Soviet Army on the Elbe, I think they have done a remarkable job. I think there is a lack of appreciation of the terrific problem they faced after the shooting was over. There was no real surrender of Germany. A few people who pretended that they were successors to Hitler were prepared to go through the process of surrender of their affected forces that had been by-passed at St. Nazaire and such places. Actually the Russian Armies and the Allied Armies met all along the line. There was complete disorganization, the government life and industrial life all gone. In our two zones we have acted in the hope that they could be educated to some respect for the readiness to follow Democratic ideas as we understand Democracy, and I think a groundwork has been laid. When you consider the magnitude and intricacies of the great task we started, I think a great job has been done."

Arctic as Battlefield

Question was asked on importance of Arctic in future of military.

Gen. Eisenhower—"The reason that you hear people talk about the Arctic is this. People have discovered that when the increasing range of the big airplane that the shortest distance around the earth, to countries that are lying in the Northern Hemisphere, is right over the Arctic. So that is the reason they show so much interest in the Arctic Region. And another thing all weather starts in the Arctic. They want to get more meteorological data and so improve our weather services."

Q. "Could you fight a war in the Arctic?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I should say this. With the facilities that man has now there is a limit to the temperature under which we can operate. In the Bulge the temperatures reached 0, and our struggle to get men out of the cold was a terrific thing because we found that very quickly wounds would be fatal because of temperature. If you have fighting temperature of 40 degrees you must have highly trained troops. I wouldn't look, in other words, for the wastes of the Arctic to be battlefields as you knew battlefields in France and Germany."

No Politics!

Q. "General, you don't expect to come back as Ambassador?"

Gen. Eisenhower—"I think that any connection between me and any political office would be like flying to the moon—until they do the latter, no politics."

Navy Postgraduate Training

A list of 22 postgraduate training courses tentatively scheduled for Naval officers in 1947 has been announced by the Navy along with length of each course and requisite qualifications for applicants. Approximately half of the courses are in the field of engineering, and almost this number call for applications from among line officers commissioned in the period 6 June 1940 to 9 June 1943. The complete schedule, however, extends eligibility to officers of various precedences in both the line and staff corps.

The training program was announced in BuPers C/L 222-46, the major portion of which is quoted. Except as noted, courses are for line officers commissioned 6 June 1940 to 9 June 1943 not above the rank of Lieutenant Commander as of 17 Oct. 1944; classes will convene in July 1947; and applications should reach the Bureau of Naval Personnel prior to 1 March 1947.

"1. Boards to select candidates for postgraduate training will meet after the receipt of applications in the Bureau. It is expected that classes in the curriculums listed below will be ordered in 1947. The instruction in these curriculums is given in whole at the Postgraduate School except as noted in the remarks column.

"Aerological Engineering, 2 years. Outstanding students may be given a third year in meteorological development and exploitation at civilian institution.
"Applied Aerology, 1 year.
"Aeronautical Engineering, 3 years. Aviators, 3d yr. at M. I. T. or CalTech.
"Aeronautical Engineering (Armament), 3 years. Aviators, 3d yr. at M. I. T.
"Civil Engineering, 2 years. At R. P. I.
"Applied Communications, 1 year.
"Electronics Engineering, 3 years.
"Law, 3 years. At Geo. Wash., Georgetown, and Catholic U.
"Naval Administration, 5 mos. At Stanford U.
"Naval Construction & Eng., 3 years. At M. I. T.

"Naval Engineering, 3 years. Small groups will be selected during 1st yr. to pursue curriculums in Petroleum Eng., Metallurgical Eng., Chemical Eng., Gas Turbines and Jet Propulsion, and Nuclear Physics and Eng. at civilian institutions.
"Applied Naval Engineering, 2 years.
"Naval Intelligence, Approx. 1 year. At Intelligence Sch., Anacostia, D. C. Study of intelligence and a foreign language and area.
"Ordnance Engineering, 3 years. Grouped into specialties during 1st yr. at PG Sch. thence to various universities.
"Ordnance Engineering (Aviation), 3 years. Aviators, 3d yr. at M. I. T.
"Personnel Administration and Training, 1 year. At Sanford, Northwestern and Ohio State U.
"Textile Engineering, 2 years. At Lowell Textile Institute, Lowell, Mass. Supply Corps officers.

"Business Administration, 2 years. At Harvard and Stanford U. Supply Corps and AEDO officers.
"Advanced Management, 13 wks. At Harvard U. Senior EDO.
"Management and Industrial Engineering, 1 year. At R. P. I.
"Advanced Science, 3 years. Small group will be chosen during 1st yr. from Aeron. Electronics, Naval and Ord. Eng. groups for further specialization in scientific fields at civilian universities.
"Chaplains, 1 year. Various seminars.

"2. Postgraduate School catalogs are being mailed to naval districts, all Professors of Naval Science, large combatant vessels, and squadron commanders of destroyers and submarines in order that detailed information will be available to officers desiring postgraduate training.

graduate training. A careful study of each curriculum in the catalog should be made by all applicants. In case the 1946 catalog is not received by the time applications are submitted, the 1945 catalog may be referred to, with the knowledge that the curriculums in the new catalog have in most cases been expanded from an accelerated to a normal basis.

"3. The training in the Engineering curriculums (Aerological, Aeronautical, Civil, Electronics, Naval, Ordnance, and Textile) and Applied Naval Engineering is of a technical nature. Applicants should have had schooling in mathematics through differential and integral calculus equivalent to that required for a B.S. degree in mechanical, civil, or Electrical Engineering, or in applied physics.

"4. The training in the Applied Communications and Applied Aerology curriculums is in general of an operational nature but requires a sound educational background. Applicants should have successfully completed courses in mathematics through quadratics as a minimum and have had at least one year sea duty. For Applied Communications, they should have had sufficient communications duty to evidence suitability for further communications training.

"5. All aviators applying for postgraduate training must have completed a normal tour in an aviation activity since completion of flight training. It is requested that aviators forward one copy of their request with all endorsements to DCNO(Air) Op-54.

"6. Eligibility of officers for postgraduate training and specific information regarding the curriculums is given below.

(a) Aerological Engineering—

"Outstanding students may be given an additional year at a civilian institution in meteorological development and exploitation.

(b) Applied Aerology—

"(c) Aeronautical Engineering and Aeronautical Engineering (Armament)—

"Eligible—Naval aviators commissioned 6 June 1940-9 June 1943, inclusive, and not above rank of Lt. Comdr. as of 17 Oct. 1944, who have completed a normal tour in an aviation activity since completion of flight training.

"Applications should reach BuPers prior 15 Feb. 1947.

(d) Civil Engineering—

"Eligible—Line and staff officers commissioned 9 June 1943-6 June 1946, inclusive, and not above rank of Lt. (jg) as of 1 Sept. 1944.

"Successful completion of this course normally leads to appointment in the Civil Engineer Corps.

(e) Applied Communications—

"Eligible—Line officers commissioned 6 June 1940-19 June 1942, inclusive, and not above rank of Lt. Comdr. as of 17 Oct. 1944.

"Group of officers scheduled to convene in Jan. 1947. Applications should reach BuPers prior 15 Oct. 1946.

(f) Electronics Engineering—

(g) Law—

"Eligible—Line officers commissioned 7 Feb. 1941-19 June 1942, inclusive, and not above rank of Lt. Comdr. as of 20 July 1945.

"Officers should have not less than 4 years sea duty.

"Marine Corps officers not above the rank of major with not less than 3 years' service.

"Group of officers scheduled to convene at George Washington, Georgetown, and Catholic Universities in Sept. 1947. Applications should reach BuPers prior 1 May 1947.

(h) Naval Administration—

"Eligible—Line officers (non-aviators) commissioned on or before 9 June 1943, up to and including Captains.

"Groups of officers scheduled to convene in March and Sept. 1947. Applications should reach BuPers prior 2 Dec. 1946 and 1 May 1947, respectively.

"Officers completing this course will normally be assigned duty in island government for 18 months to 2 years immediately thereafter.

(i) Naval Construction & Engineering—

"Eligible—Line officers commissioned 7 June 1944-6 June 1946, inclusive, and not above rank of Lt. (jg) as of 1 Jan. 1946. Officers selected will be assigned engineering duty afloat for one year, and will commence postgraduate training in June 1948. Successful completion of this course normally leads to designation of EDO.

"Applications should reach BuPers prior 1 Feb. 1947.

"Officers already designated EDO will be considered eligible for this course without limitation as to original date of commission provided they are not more than 30 years of age as of 1 July 1947. These officers will not be subject to additional duty afloat for one year, but will commence postgraduate training in June 1947 or 1948.

(j) Naval Engineering—

"During the first year small groups of officers will be selected to pursue curriculums in Petroleum Engineering, Metallurgical Engineering, Chemical Engineering, Gas Turbines and Jet Propulsion, and Nuclear Physics and Engineering at civilian institutions.

(k) Applied Naval Engineering—

"Eligible—Line officers commissioned on or before 9 June 1943 who have not passed their thirtieth birthday as of 1 July 1947.

"This curriculum includes some general line subjects and is intended to qualify officers for engineering duty afloat and machinery installation and material inspection ashore.

(l) Naval Intelligence—

"Groups of officers scheduled to convene at Anacostia, D. C. in July 1947 and Jan. 1948. Applications should reach BuPers prior 1 March 1947 and 1 Sept. 1947, respectively.

"The students will study intelligence for 6 months, proceed to sea for ten weeks practical work after which they return for language instruction. The length of time required to complete the entire course will depend on the language majored in. Each student will be required to become proficient in 1 foreign language.

"It is planned to assign graduates of this course to intelligence billets when on shore duty. Successful completion will in no way interfere with the usual rotation of sea and shore duty.

(m) Ordnance Engineering—

"The students selected for Ordnance Engineering will be divided into groups during their first year at the Postgraduate School as follows:

- Ordnance Engineering (Physics Electronics—Radar)
- Ordnance Engineering (Physics Electronics—Subsurface)
- Ordnance Engineering (Physics Electronics—Guidance)
- Ordnance Engineering (Metallurgy)
- Ordnance Engineering (General)
- Ordnance Engineering (Fire Control)
- Ordnance Engineering (Jet Propulsion)
- Ordnance Engineering (Chemical)
- Ordnance Engineering (Mechanical-Electrical Propulsion)

"Applications should reach BuPers prior 15 Feb. 1947.

(n) Ordnance Engineering (Aviation)—

"Eligible—Naval aviators commissioned 6 June 1940-9 June 1943, inclusive, and not above rank of Lt. Comdr. as of 17 Oct. 1944, who have completed a normal tour in an aviation activity since completion of flight training.

"Applications should reach BuPers prior 15 Feb. 1947.

(o) Personnel Administration and Training—

"Eligible—Line, Staff and EDO officers commissioned on or before 19 June 1942, up to and including Captains, who possess a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.

"It is planned to assign graduates of this course to personnel administration or training billets.

(p) Textile Engineering—

"Eligible—Lieutenants or below of the supply corps.

"Group of officers scheduled to convene in Sept. 1947. Applications should reach BuPers prior 1 May 1947.

(q) Business Administration—

"Eligible—Supply Corps officers rank of Lt. (jg) to Comdr. inclusive at time of application. EDO (Air) officers nominated by BuAer.

"Group of Supply Corps officers scheduled to convene in Oct. 1947. Applications should reach BuPers prior 15 May 1947.

"Group of EDO (Air) officers scheduled to convene at Harvard in Oct. 1947. Nominations to be made by BuAer; no applications desired.

(r) Advanced Management—

"Eligible—Senior EDO officers.

"Groups of officers scheduled to convene in Sept. 1947 and Feb. 1948 for 13 weeks course. Nominations made by BuShips; no applications desired.

(s) Management and Industrial Engineering—

"Eligible—Officers junior to the Naval Academy class of 1932 who are graduates of naval postgraduate courses in Aeronautical, Civil, Electronics, Naval and Ordnance Engineering, or officers possessing equivalent educational background.

"Group of officers scheduled to convene in Sept. 1947 at Rensselaer. Applications should reach BuPers prior 1 May 1947.

(t) Advanced Science—

"A group of officer students who show particular aptitude will be chosen from among Aeronautical, Electronics, Naval and Ordnance Engineering groups for further specialization in scientific fields at the Postgraduate School and at civilian universities.

(u) Chaplains—

"Eligible—Chaplains to be nominated by the Chief of Chaplains.

"A course in theology and pastoral duties for one academic year at appropriate seminars.

"7. Signed agreements not to resign during the curriculum, and to serve 3 years in the naval service after the completion of their studies, must be submitted with the applications of all officers applying for applications in all the curriculums for which applications are invited.

"8. In order to make certain that the boards will have before them all applications, the Bureau directs that any applicant who may have indicated his preference for postgraduate instruction on his reports of fitness, or by letter, renew his request by letter. The request should contain a first and second choice of desired instruction (but not more) in order to assist the boards in fitting applicants into the courses for which they are best adapted. Careful consideration should be given to the second choice, which choice will indicate a specialty which the candidate desires to follow if he is not selected for his primary choice. Former reserve and temporary officers will include in their applications a comprehensive synopsis of their previous schooling which shows their qualifications and the degrees of success in pertinent subjects as required by paragraph 3 or 4. If practicable, a transcript of the college and/or high-school records should be submitted to substantiate the above synopsis. If this information is not on file in the Navy Department, Boards will consider only applications submitted through official channels, appended endorsements, and the officers' records. No other letters of recommendation are desired.

"9. The attention of the forwarding seniors is invited to the fact that endorsements should not be perfunctory, but should state in full the candidate's carefully considered abilities and prospective potentialities for the type of postgraduate instruction for which he is an applicant. No candidate should be recommended who is not considered to be particularly worthy of instruction, or whose educational qualifications are doubtful. If an officer appears to be exceptionally well qualified, and for some reason does not meet all of the above requirements, he may submit a request and the commanding officer may recommend him for consideration."

Army in Nürnberg Trials

The predominant role of the U. S. Army in providing administrative services and maintenance facilities and other functions incident to the Nürnberg war trials was highly commended this week by Justice Robert H. Jackson in a report to President Truman.

Justice Jackson outlined the manifold tasks performed by United States personnel in conducting the war guilt trials. Also, press dispatches from Nürnberg reported that U. S. Army soldiers performed the actual hangings with M. Sgt. John C. Wood, USA, who has presided at 233 executions, springing the trap in some cases.

In a letter to the President, Justice Jackson reported on his work as representative of the United States and chief of counsel for the International Military Tribunal. He declared:

U. S. "Host"

"On the United States fell the obligations of host nation at Nürnberg. The staffs of all nations, the press and visitors were provided for by the United States Army. It was done in a ruined city and among an enemy population. Utilities, communications, transport and housing had been destroyed. The courthouse was untenable until extensively repaired. The Army provided air and rail transportation, operated a motor pool for local transportation, set up local and long-distance communications service for all delegations and the press, and billeted all engaged in the work. It operated messes and furnished food for all, the courthouse cafeteria often serving as many as 1,500 lunches on court days. The United States also provided security for prisoners, judges and prosecution, furnished administrative services, and provided such facilities as photostat, mimeograph and sound recording. Over 30,000 photostats, about 30,000,000 pages of typed matter, and more than 4,000 record discs were produced. The Army also met indirect requirements such as dispensary and hospital, shipping, postal, post-exchange and other servicing. It was necessary to setup for this personnel every facility not only for working, but for living as well, for the community itself afforded nothing. The theatre commander and his staff, military-government officials, area commanders and their staffs and troops were cordially and tirelessly cooperative in meeting our heavy requirements under unusual difficulties and had the commendation, not only of the American staff, but of all others."

Justice Jackson recommended that a large number of Nazis whom he believes guilty of war crimes, including militarists, be tried on the zonal basis in Germany now that the trials of high command Nazis is completed.

General Staff

"In its judgment the tribunal condemned the officers who performed General Staff and High Command functions as 'a ruthless military caste' and said they were 'responsible in large measure for the miseries and suffering that have fallen on millions of men, women and children. They have been a disgrace to the honorable profession of arms.' This finding should dispose of any fear that we were prosecuting soldiers just because they fought for their country and lost, but otherwise is regrettable.

Name Gen. Taylor

"Under your executive order of 16 Jan. 1946, the war-crimes functions devolve upon military government upon my retirement. At the time this order was signed it was agreed between military government and myself that I would at once name Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor as deputy in charge of preparing subsequent proceedings, and that upon my retirement he would be named to take over the war-crimes prosecution on behalf of military government. He has assembled a staff and prepared a program of prosecutions against representatives of all the important segments of the Third Reich, including a considerable number of industrialists and financiers, leading Cabinet Ministers, top SS and police officials and militarists. Careful analysis is being made of the tribunal's decision to determine any effects of the acquittal of Schacht and von Papen upon this plan of prosecution of industrialists and financiers who are clearly subject to prosecution on such specific charges as the use of slave labor."

Urge RA Branch Transfers

The War Department, desiring to effect an immediate adjustment among the several arms and services of their quotas for Regular Army officers by voluntary basic branch transfers, has issued additional regulations pertaining to the subject in War Department Circular 307.

Regular Army officers, with certain exceptions as listed in the circular, will submit individual requests to The Adjutant General through channels if they desire a permanent change in basic branch.

Regular Army officers who on 31 Dec. 1946, have completed at least a four-year detail to an Arm or Service other than their basic Arm or Service, and who do not apply for transfer to the Arm or Service in which detailed, will be subject to relief from such detail on 31 Dec. 1947.

Officers integrated into the Regular Army under Public Law 281—79th Congress and Public Law 670—79th Congress will not request a basic branch transfer to an Arm or Service in which they could not have obtained the same grade eligibility as that actually obtained in the one in which they received appointment.

Those integrated under the two Public Laws cited also will not request a basic branch transfer from an arm or service in which they served the major portion of their World War II service and in which they requested and received appointment as their first choice until they have served a minimum of two years since appointment.

Officers graduated from the U. S. Military Academy will not request a basic branch transfer unless they have served a minimum of two years since appointment.

Pending the completion of the adjustment which the War Department desires, all transfers under paragraph 3a, AR 605-145, except as provided in the new circular are suspended until further notice.

Medical Service Corps

The reintroduction of the bill "To create the Medical Service Corps in the Medical Department of the Army" bids fair to have opposition to its enactment by the next Congress unless it is modified to preserve the identity of the relatively new Pharmacy Corps. To formulate the opposition, representatives of various national pharmaceutical organizations and of the National Retail Druggists of the United States have been in conference this week with Representative Carl T. Durham, Dem., chairman of the House Military sub-committee on Army Organization.

Army Relief Society

The Army Relief Society, founded in 1900 by Army and civilian women and friends to provide confidential and personal aid for needy Regular Army widows and orphans, has now enlarged the scope of its work.

This Society not only provides relief in cases of emergency for dependent widows and orphans of officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army of the United States, active or retired, but gives similar assistance to such dependent widows and orphans of temporary personnel as may be requested and financed by the Army Emergency Relief. It grants financial aid immediately in emergencies, over an extended time when necessary, loans in hardship cases and educational grants. It offers advice and assistance in obtaining pensions, legal aid, hospitalization at reduced rates and scholarships.

The income of this Society depends upon annual contributions, memberships from Civilian and Retired Officers Branches, gifts, life memberships of $100, memorials of $100 or more, income from invested funds of the Society and reimbursement from the Army Emergency Relief.

The office of the Army Relief Society Headquarters is in the Empire State Building, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

France Honors 82nd Airborne

Fifteen units of the 82nd Airborne Division received the Fourragere of the French Croix de Guerre 1939-1945 from Lt. Gen. Maurice Mathenet, French military attaché in the United States, at ceremonies at Fort Bragg, N. C., 18 Oct.

The entire division already has received ed the Military Order of Willem from the Netherlands and the Fourragere of the Belgian Croix de Guerre 1940.

Following a visit to the division's museum of World War II trophies, Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin, commanding general of the 82nd, staged a review at which General Mathenet decorated the colors of the units concerned.

Units cited include Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 82nd Airborne Division; 325th Glider Infantry Regiment; 505th Parachute Infantry Regiment; 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment; 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment; 82nd Airborne Division Signal Company; 307th Airborne Medical Company; Headquarters and Headquarters Battery and Batteries A, B and C, 80th Airborne Anti-Aircraft Battalion's Companies A and B, 307th Airborne Engineer Battalion; 319th Glider Field Artillery Battalion and 320th Glider Field Artillery Battalion.

Gen. Ward's Message to R & SC

Maj. Gen. Orlando Ward, commanding general of the Replacement and School Command, which is to be inactivated 1 Nov., issued the following farewell message to the officers of his command before going to an overseas assignment:

"Circumstances dictate that I release command for an assignment overseas. I leave you with these thoughts:

"The post-war Army has not the tradition of the old Army nor the incentive of war. The schools and replacement system are, therefore, faced with the difficult task of contributing mightily to a sound foundation on which to build the current Army. This responsibility is great as the very security of our nation will, to a great extent, depend on it.

"We must analyze our instruction and see that it is based on the battlefield application of the subjects taught. We must stress small-unit leadership. We must stress the exercises of leadership through organization. We must stress the methods and means of building leadership and of ascertaining its effectiveness. We must avoid extreme compartmentation. We must cement the whole together with the battlefield application of its parts. We must stress promptly small unit team play if its members are to learn their technique intelligently. Our instruction must be practical and basic with an eye to the future; not necessarily an editing of the means and methods we used to defeat our recent enemy. Last, but not least, the slogan of the schools and replacement training centers should be "Train and Drill As We Would Fight." Let us stress battlefield application of everything we do, and above all, teach nothing that must be forgotten on the battlefield.

"I wish you one and all success in your endeavors."

Third Army Association

Former personnel of Headquarters, Third U. S. Army, held a social get-together at a noon luncheon in the General Officer's Dining Room of The Pentagon on Friday, 11 Oct.

This luncheon marked the first meeting of a contemplated Third U. S. Army Association to be formed with local chapters through the country. Lt. Gen. Lucien K. Truscott, Jr., former Commanding General, Third Army, who succeeded the late Gen. George S. Patton, gave a short welcoming address.

Among those present were:

Col. Robert S. Allen, G-2, of 1525 28th Street, N.W.; Col. Robert E. Cummings, Adjutant General, of 3902 Oberlin Street, Houston, Tex.; Col. Edward C. Wallington, Office, Chief of Chemical Warfare Service, War Department, Washington; Col. Thomas J. Hartford, MC, National War College, Washington; Col. David H. Tulley of Legislative and Liaison Division, War Department Special Staff, Washington; Col. Harold M. Ford, War Department, Washington; Col. Everett Busch, QMC, Seattle Quartermaster Depot, Seattle, Wash.; Col. Charles E. Cheever, JAG, Office of Under Secretary of War, War Department, Washington; Lt. Col. Robert E. Joseph, JAG, Hq, Military District of Washington; Lt. Col. Richard J. Stillman of Operations and Training Division, War Department, Washington; Lt. Col. W. T. Weissinger, Operations and Training Division, War Department, Washington; Lt. Col. Carl T. Dubuy, Office Surgeon General, Washington; Lt. Col. Raymond C. Luna, Office Chief of Engineers, Washington; Lt. Col. Dan Kennedy, Washington; Lt. Col. Ryerson A. Breden, Ord. Hqs, Fifth Army, Chicago; Maj. Everett E. Smith, JAG, National Gallery of Art, Washington; and

Capt. Carl E. Veltenthal, Jr., of 6060 13th Place, N.W., Washington.

All former members of the Third U. S. Army Headquarters are urged to get in touch with Lt. Col. Robert E. Joseph at Room 5 C 474—The Pentagon, Republic 6700, Ext. 4619 or 74248.

Hearings on Military Justice

The War Department Advisory Committee on Military Justice ended its hearings 12 Oct. and began preparation of recommendations to the War Department.

Testifying before the Committee last week, General Courtney H. Hodges, commanding general of the First Army, opposed proposals that the power to appoint courts martial be taken from field commanders and given to the Judge Advocate General. General Omar N. Bradley joined General Hodges in this opposition.

Maj. Gen. Ewart G. Plank, commanding general of the New York Port of Embarkation, testified that there are inequities in the treatment given officers and enlisted men for the same offenses. Maj. Gen. Milton A. Record, Adjutant General of Maryland, charged that commanding generals are using courts martial as "an arm to chastise rather than to weigh evidence."

Lt. Gen. Wade H. Haislip, Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin, and General Record all recommended the appointment of properly qualified enlisted men to courts trying enlisted men.

The Committee, made up of nine civilian lawyers, was appointed last Spring by Secretary Patterson on the recommendation of the American Bar Association and is headed by Dean Arthur T. Vanderbilt of New York University Law School.

New AUS Separation Criteria

With a view toward improving the general quality of the officer personnel of the Army and to effect a reduction to authorized strength by 31 Dec. further orders have been issued by the War Department for the separation of non-Regular officers.

The Director of Personnel and Administration has issued instructions, effective until 15 Oct. 1947, unless sooner rescinded or superseded, to the effect that all non-Regular officers, regardless of category, having an efficiency index below 35.0 in the company grades and below 40.0 in the field grades will be separated as surplus to the needs of the Army.

This policy does not apply to Class II installations.

Officers whose separation is directed under this authority will be processed for separation immediately in order to complete all service including terminal leave prior to 31 Dec. 1946.

Efficiency indexes to determine separations under this new criteria are computed as prescribed in Redeployment Regulations 1-1.

In some cases the retention of an officer eligible for separation under the new policy is authorized when he is deemed essential for a limited period for completion of an activity or termination of duties.

All by itself in the Value Spotlight

First it was style that drew the public's eye to the lean, clean, swift-lined beauty of this brawny Buick.

Then it was ability, as more and more took to the road—and promptly proved themselves the star performers of the year.

Now the real story's coming out, as happy owners pile up the miles, buyers get choosier, and what you get begins to mean more than getting something quickly.

Point by point and dollar for dollar, folks are finding that Buick is the year's top buy.

It's the top buy on ruggedness. Look into its husky, cross-braced frame, its stout torque-tube drive, its heaved-up axles, stronger body metals.

It's top buy on comfort. Look into the room of three-person seats, the gentleness of upkeep-free BuiCoil springing, even Broadrim wheels that halt heel-over on curves.

It's top buy on handling. Try the wheel, the brakes, the gear-shift—they're feathery light, certain-sure, positive always in action, free from need for meticulous care.

Your own eyes tell you it's tops on styling. Your glad senses reveal lift and life that are a joy to your soul at quick-pace or crawl. We can tell you that the times can't provide better materials—and good Buick craftsmen, in all their 40-odd years, never have done a finer job in production and assembly than here.

So name your own yardstick. Put it against Buick and the field.

We think you'll find that this one stands alone for money-stretching value. And that, good friend, is something to make a little wait easy to take.

Ground-Controlled Landings

Winter threats to flying safety are accelerating the Navy's training program for additional crews to man 39 Ground Controlled Approach (GCA) radar units at its landing fields in the United States and overseas.

Since experiments began on GCA in 1941, a total of 15,000 landings at operational bases had been recorded by 1 Sept., and 50,000 landings have been made at training schools to train operators. Of the operational landings, 469 were made under actual instrument weather conditions when safety of the plane and its crew was in the hands of skilled Navy GCA crews.

In this connection, the Navy is demonstrating GCA before international representatives to the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization now in convention at Indianapolis. The demonstration, using all types of Navy planes from a light two-place basic trainer to the four-engined Privateer bomber, shows the versatility of GCA in bringing all types of planes to a safe landing.

Navy Trainer Under Test

The initial flight test of the XNQ-1, a new Navy primary trainer, completed yesterday at the Fairchild Aircraft Division of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation, Hagerstown, Md.

The XNQ-1 is a low-wing, all-metal, two-place monoplane with tandem seating arrangement. It is powered by a Lycoming nine cylinder engine rated at 320 hp., and is equipped with flaps and an electrically operated retractable landing gear. It is the first primary trainer equipped with a Hamilton Standard controllable pitch propeller.

The cockpit is enclosed by an unobstructed one-piece bubble canopy, offering all-around visibility to both the instructor and student. The XNQ-1 has a gross weight of 3700 lbs. Its rate of climb is expected to be more than 1,000 feet per minute, and its maximum speed is estimated at 170 mph. Adequate stall characteristics are incorporated into the design of the trainer. The airplane has a wing span of 41 feet, 5 inches. Its over-all length is 27 feet, 11 inches, and its height is 9 feet, 10 inches.

Guided-Missile Squadrons

Having perfected the BAT, radar-guided glider bomb, as a full-fledged service weapon, the Navy is launched on a training program to train fleet aircraft personnel in its technical and operational use. Pilots and aircrewmembers are participating in the program at the Naval Aviation Ordnance Test Station, Chincoteague, Va., for the purpose of organizing two Privateer patrol bomber squadrons for service use of the missile.

Vice Admiral George F. Hussey, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, in a statement published in connection with a demonstration 16 Oct., at Chincoteague, declared that the program "marks the first step in the foreseen change in methods of defensive and offensive warfare through the employment of guided missiles."

The BAT is "the first fully automatic homing guided missile to be made available to the armed forces," Admiral Hussey said. It was used in the destruction of many tons of Japanese shipping during the war, and has since proved effective against certain land targets such as bridges, dams, and isolated factories.

In firing tests being conducted at Chincoteague, the glider bombs are launched from both a Corsair fighter plane and a Privateer bomber against a target ship.

Memorial Service for Nurses

A Memorial Service for the Nurses of the Armed Forces is to be held Sunday Oct. 20, 3:00 P.M., in the Amphitheater, Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va.

The program, prepared by the Office of the Chief of Chaplains, lists Secretary of War Patterson as the principal speaker. Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, Surgeon General of the Army, and Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Luther D. Miller, Chief of Chaplains, are also scheduled to speak.

perience in the duties of battery and battalion commanders, and battalion and regimental staff officers of field artillery units of the Fleet Marine Force, equipped with any type of field artillery weapon in use by the Marine Corps.

f. Ordnance School. To instruct selected officers and enlisted personnel in the maintenance and repair of Marine Corps ordnance materiel and in the handling of munitions.

g. Correspondence School. To provide a means whereby officers, whose duties prevent their attendance at resident schools, may keep abreast of current doctrine through correspondence courses.

Also, to provide correspondence courses for officers and enlisted men of the Marine Corps Reserve, designed to qualify them for appointment to commissioned rank and for promotion to higher commissioned rank.

The foregoing schools are all founded on the principle that the Marine Corps Schools' organization is an educational rather than a training agency. Consequently, the Schools do not seek to provide comprehensive technical training in the many specialized military functions which are related to the amphibious subject. Thus while general instruction in air operations, armored warfare, naval gunfire support, transport loading, etc., is included, no attempt is made to explore the technical aspects of those specialties, since the problem of purely technical training is considered to be outside the purview of the Schools.

The Schools were organized in 1920, and, in addition to providing a general military education for officer students, began at that time a comprehensive study of amphibious operations with emphasis upon the landing force aspects. This was a prospective research effort, primarily in a field which had never before been thoroughly examined.

Within ten years the Schools had developed a series of theoretical studies covering the several specialized fields of landing force activity, including:

Transport Loading
Ship to Shore Movement
Naval Gunfire Support
Shore Party
Close Air Support

as well as the adaptation of land warfare tactics, technique and equipment to landing operations.

By 1930 these studies had advanced sufficiently to permit their rationalization in written form, and a series of publications in the manual field was developed—

1933—Marine Corps in Support of the Fleet

1934—Manual for Naval Overseas Operations

1938—FTP 167, Landing Operations Doctrine

During the war the efforts of the Schools were centralized on two programs of officer education:

a. A junior officer training program which produced some 18,000 second lieutenants for the field forces.

b. Command and staff training of field officers to qualify them for command duties in the Fleet Marine Force or staff duty in any military amphibious capacity. This included the training of a significant number of Army, Navy and foreign officers.

At the present time, the Schools are continuing their program of general officer education stressing the landing force aspects of amphibious warfare. In addition, the Schools have undertaken the project of reducing to written form a rationalization of best practice in the amphibious field as disclosed by the experience of the war just ended.

Navy Liaison Officer to AGF

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations, and Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of the Army Ground Forces, 15 Oct. announced the appointment of Capt. Robert Bolton, USN, as Navy Liaison officer to the Army Ground Forces Headquarters at Fort Monroe, Va.

In his new post, Captain Bolton will work closely with staff officers of the Army Ground Forces on matters of mutual importance to both branches of the service.

Sea Pay and Rental Allowance

An unmarried Coast Guard aviator who resided ashore between anti-submarine patrol flights is entitled to collect both sea pay and rental allowance, the U. S. Court of Claims has ruled.

The Court decided on 7 Oct. that sea pay had been paid following approval by the aviator's commanding officer, but that the nature of his "sea duty" was not the same as that defined in pay regulations as precluding payment of rental allowance to officers on sea duty.

"Established in obedience to an insistent demand for an official organ for members of the American Defense and those concerned with it, The Army and Navy Journal will be published in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its independence will be absolute. Its interest will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments."—From Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1933.

"Japan lost the war because she lost command of the sea and command of the air."—FLEET ADMIRAL ERNEST J. KING.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Maintenance in accordance with professional studies of our national needs and international commitments, of Regular Establishments organized and trained to utilize and employ materials of war developed by continuing scientific research, and backed by Industry and Labor kept intimately familiar with the manufacture of such materials.
2. Reconstruction of National Guard and Reserve components federally aided and encouraged to maximum efficiency, and effectively coordinated with the Regular Services, and universal military training.
3. Increase in active and retired pay and allowances to meet risen costs so as to enable maintenance of American standards of living, and protection of such pay from reduction through income taxes.
4. Institution of orderly promotion systems in the Regular Establishments with recognition of war service and war ranks to prevent stagnation, and to insure the maintenance of high professional standards.
5. Continuation and expansion of service schools, including the Army and Navy Staff College, attendance of which shall be open to National Guard and Reserve officers.
6. Suitable rank and retirement benefits for former enlisted personnel and warrant officers who served as commissioned officers during the war.
7. Grant of the same rights and benefits to those who elect to remain in the Services as will be enjoyed by the discharged veterans.
8. Upward revision of pension scales to insure Service widows and dependents a living income.
9. Compensation for Service personnel who use privately owned automobiles on government business.
10. Maintenance of stock piles of strategic materials.

IT is interesting to note that in their plans for permanent post-war personnel policies the War and Navy Departments are working toward seemingly divergent objectives. The Navy, which before the War operated under a stringent system of forced attrition, is seeking a modified method which will not result in great numbers of involuntary retirements of junior officers and will offer young men entering the sea services longer careers of active duty. The Army, on the other hand, which before the war had no forced attrition, is now attempting to increase its attrition rate from the normal 3½ per cent to a figure closer to 5½ per cent, which, with a strength of 50,000 officers would mean that as many as 1,000 officers a year would have to be forcibly removed from the active list. Actually these aims are not incongruous, for the Navy's pre-war system was much too stringent and admittedly resulted in returning to civil life many physically able and professionally capable officers whom it later was found necessary to recall to active duty in the war, while the pre-war Army, except for the ineffective Class B, had no method even of separating misfits and incompetents. By augmenting the junior grades with reserve officers on active duty, the Navy hopes to be able to offer its Regular personnel longer careers without promotion hold-ups. The Army views its new attempt at forced attrition as a "vitalizing" influence to keep Commissioned officers on their toes. The new Army system is based on the authority of war legislation and hence will require legislation to make it permanent. Before such permanent legislation is sought there should be sufficient data from the present experiment to determine whether it is effective in removing incompetents and whether it is fair enough in its operation to protect both the individual against unjust persecution and the Government against loss of capable and faithful officers in whom it has an investment. As an insurance against hasty legislation that may adversely affect morale in the post-war years, both the War and Navy Departments should publicize their promotion and retirement plans in advance of submission to Congress so that they may have the benefit of suggestions and comments from all classes of officers stationed over the world. Only by this method can they be assured of personnel systems in which the Services will have confidence.

IF there is one thing the Nürnberg condemnations show, it is that no nation will dare allow itself to become weak, and, therefore, open to defeat. Conquest would mean that the victor would hold it guilty of aggression and conduct a purge, basing its action upon the Nürnberg precedent which Associate Justice Jackson claims accords with fundamental international law. If there were such a thing as international law, Mr. Jackson might be justified in making this claim, but as World War II confirmed, belligerents are not guided by any law and act only as their interests command. In his report to President Truman, Mr. Jackson further indicated that the effect of the condemnations would be to promote disarmament, whereas the contrary is the fact. In our own case, should we be defeated, the President with his constitutional authority as Commander-in-Chief would be hanged, and in company with him would be his personal staff and the Chiefs of Staff and Naval operations, and were the Associate Justice to have his will the General Staff, too, would be punished. There are, of course, horrors perpetrated by civilian and military officials, as some of the Nürnberg defendants committed, that go far beyond military operations and justly are subject to drastic sentences. In our own conduct of war the Services are required to observe rules of humanitarian conduct, and any violation of them results in prompt court-martial. Justice Jackson pays tribute to the services the American Army rendered in connection with the trials, but we note that the British, Russian, and French Military forces left this duty to us, preferring naturally to escape German anger and to direct it toward the United States. From an international viewpoint, it would have been in our interest to require all the victors to take part in the Guard and other services, and not to have made it an American show by having even the hangman an American. From the long range view, the trials have, in fact, promoted an armament race, and the punishment of officers who merely executed the policies laid down by their Government, will tend to cause acts of brutality in order the more quickly to break the will of an enemy to fight. Fortunately, in our own conduct of war there is no danger of the pursuit of a course which would disgrace the honorable profession of arms. That being so and expected, there is one way only by which we can escape defeat and its consequences, and that is through the maintenance of strength; and we may add that the very existence of that strength would do more to promote peace and prevent aggression than negotiations which, as in the case of the Paris conference, produce insults and develop situations that easily could provoke war.

One of Three

"How do you expect to accomplish anything with three beautiful secretaries in your office?"

"Simple. I give two of them a day off."
—Belvoir Castle.

Just Stiff

"I must apologize for my dancing. I'm a little stiff from bowling."
"My dear man, I don't care where you're from."
—Skyscrapers.

A Talking Horse, Too

A drunk came into the bar, sat down, ordered a beer, and was drinking it when in through the door came a horse.

The horse sat down and ordered a Martini. The bartender mixed it for him and set it down in front of him.

"You forgot the olive," said the horse. "Sorry," said the bartender, and he dropped an olive into the drink.

The horse then drank the Martini and walked out.

Calling the bartender over, the drunk said, "That's strange."

"Oh, no," replied the barkeep, "I often forget the olive."

Sidewalk Engineer?

"I understand Jack studied mechanical engineering. What's he doing now?"

"He's working on the railroad."

"That so? What doing?"

"Well, you know the man who goes around the cars and taps all the wheels to make sure everything is all right?"

"Yes."

"Well, Jack helps that man listen."
—Beatnik.

Down in the small southern town where he lives people are all so kind and indulgent with Uncle Mose that the ancient dandy has become a little spoiled. One day Uncle Mose presented a check for $19.42 at the local bank. The old man took the money from the teller, counted it, then re-counted it. He didn't seem to be satisfied.

"What is the matter, Uncle Mose," the teller asked. "Isn't it right?"

"Yes," was the grudging reply, "but it jes' barely is."

C.H.W.—According to the War Department the date of active duty for an officer receiving a commission in the Regular Army is the date upon which the oath is executed. If the officer is given the oath before his terminal leave has been completed it would be necessary for him to refund travel pay he has received to his home. However, if the oath was not executed until after the completion of his terminal leave it would not be necessary for him to refund that payment.

E.B.V.—On terminal leave you will belong to your basic Branch in which you hold the rank of Lt. Col.

F.S.—We have been advised by the Army Air Forces Training Section that the AAF Extension Courses have not yet been started. The school which will be responsible for administering the Army Air Forces Extension Courses will be Air University, Maxwell Field, Alabama.

H.F.—A soldier can reenlist in his permanent grade at any time providing he does so within 6 months after his release from active duty (AR 600-750, C 11, 9 March 1945).

New AAF Technical Committee

In connection with the decision of the Secretary of War that the Army Air Force is to assume responsibility for the development of guided missiles, it is interesting to note that there was organized early in May of this year under the direction of the Commanding General of the AAF, and meeting twice each month at Headquarters, Air Materiel Command, Dayton, Ohio, a new unit designated as the Army Air Forces Technical Committee. The membership is composed of the top officers of the Air Materiel Command, representatives of the Army Ground and Service Forces, and the U. S. Navy.

The main purpose of the Committee is to study the change in trend of modern warfare in order that the Army Air Forces may maintain its role of top leadership in meeting the challenge of scientific development and may coordinate with other organizations on research and development functions in order that duplication of effort may be avoided, and that the maximum return may be obtained from the funds appropriated by Congress.

Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Commanding General of the Air Materiel Command, has the supervision of all activities, and Maj. Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, Deputy Commanding General for Engineering of the AMC, is General Chairman. Col. James F. Early is Secretary. The Army Ground and Service Forces are represented by officers from Washington. The Navy is represented by authority of the Bureau of Aeronautics by a naval officer stationed at Wright Field.

The Committee has now completed a review of over 4,000 current research and development projects. It has established work projects and published reports to all the other arms and services of the War and Navy Departments. This over-all review action includes work of the scientific advisory committees, industry, the NACA, and the Bureau of Aeronautics. The effort channels from the lowest working levels in all phases of Air Forces research and development through the Technical Committee to the highest staff levels of the Air Forces, War Department, and related organizations.

Air Units Shifted

Headquarters of the Ninth Air Force and the 20th Fighter Group, both now at Biggs Field, El Paso, Tex., are soon to be moved to make room for the 47th Light Bomb Group and its servicing units.

The 47th is now at Lake Charles Army Air Field, La., which is to revert to a temporarily inactive status in the near future.

The Ninth and its supporting units will be shifted to Greenville Army Air Base, S. C., and the 20th Fighter Group will go to Shaw Field, S. C.

Mass B-29 World Flight

A proposed global mass flight of B-29s, involving eight to twenty-four planes and scheduled for next month, was announced this week by Assistant Secretary of War for Air Symington.

The Army Air Forces plans the round-the-world flight as a test for a single command unit making the succession of hops at as great a speed as practicable. The flight is planned over the standard route to Cairo, India, and the Pacific network, the established Air Transport Command route.

The flight is expected to require a week or two, depending upon the length of stops made.

Advertisers in the Army and Navy Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

Naval Aviation Medicine

The forty-fifth Class of Navy Flight Surgeons graduated from the Naval School of Aviation Medicine, Pensacola, Fla., on 11 Oct. Rear Admiral Frank D. Wagner, USN, Chief of Naval Air Training, gave the commencement address.

Following Admiral Wagner's address, the diplomas were presented by Capt. Louis Iverson, (MC), USN, to the following:

Lt. Victor V. Davie (MC) USN, Lt. Gerald M. Eastham (MC) USN, Lt. Walter H. Jarvis (MC) USN, Lt. (Jg) Hugh A. Clegg (MC) USNR, Lt. (Jg) Alfred B. Gobbie (MC) USNR, Lt. (Jg) Clifford S. Goodman (MC) USNR, Surgeon Lt. Comdr. Lloyd G. Alford, RCN, and Capt. Wilson De Oliveira Freitas, Brazilian Air Force.

Class forty-six began the four month course of study which leads to the designation of Naval Flight Surgeon on 16 Sept. This class is composed of 13 Naval medical officers, representing almost as many medical colleges, and many different states.

Applications are desired from Regular Medical Officers to reach the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery prior to 1 Nov. for a three months' course in aviation medicine to be held at the School of Aviation Medicine in Pensacola beginning 6 Jan. 1947 for a quota of 20 Medical Officers.

Eligible are Lt. (Jg), Lieutenants, Lieutenant Commanders with two years' Naval experience including Internship. By submitting application it is understood that applicant agrees to remain in aviation medicine for a period of three years following completion of the course. Aviation medicine training provides a basis for later assignment in aviation medicine, research, and other postgraduate training.

Cost of Arctic Flight

The flight of the "Pacusan Dreamboat", which pioneered the route from Hawaii to Cairo over the Arctic regions, cost the Army Air Forces $91,941.

The major portion of this cost is considered recoverable as it involved structural changes to the airplane which now forms part of its permanent equipment.

The 13,000 gallons of gasoline used during the flight cost the AAF $2,795.00, and the oil approximately $162. These figures reflect the true cost of the flight, as the balance of $88,984 was to the Boeing Aircraft Company for special bomb bay fuel cells, installation charges for the engine changes, installation of nylon center-section fuel cells, strengthening of the landing gear, and minor structural changes to the fuselage.

It is planned to keep the "Pacusan Dreamboat" complete with its new equipment in the event it might be used on other long range flights in the future.

AAF Needs Weather Officers

Former weather officers may return to active duty in the Army Air Forces and reserve officers, either active or inactive, may attend the AAF Weather Officers School if they qualify in the educational requirements.

Due to the urgent need for qualified weather officers, the AAF is permitting meteorologists to return to active duty in the grade they held prior to separation from the Army. Other reserve officers who have completed three years of college, including at least one year of physics and mathematics through calculus, may return to active duty and attend the 39 weeks' Weather Officers Course at Chanute Field, Ill. After successfully completing the course, they will receive a Weather Officer rating and be assigned to a unit of Air Weather Service.

Both flying and ground officers are sought. Rated officers probably will be assigned to a Weather Reconnaissance unit flying Boeing B-29 Superfortresses over the Northern Pacific and Atlantic regions. All officers now on active duty who are selected must be either Regular Army or Category 1.

An additional incentive is offered to those interested in meteorology in the selection of 25 officers yearly for advanced training at leading civilian universities. Such officers must remain on active duty for four years upon graduation.

Interested officers are advised to contact their nearest Reserve Base or Army Headquarters and obtain W.D. A.G.O. Form 160. These forms must be completed and mailed to The Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C.

Develops Teleran

Teleran (Television-Radar-Air Navigation) went on public display for the first time 10 Oct. at Indianapolis, Ind., as part of the United States' demonstration of radio aids to air navigation.

Teleran, which is now the largest single development progress in the Radio Corporation of America, was in the planning stage in 1941 when war caused curtailment of development. During 1945 and 1946 RCA resumed the project in cooperation with the Army Air Forces, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, airline operators and aircraft manufacturers, with the aim of expanding the system to use visual communication to the greatest possible extent.

Because of its unique type of presentation, television is peculiarly suitable to the transmission of ground radar information to aircraft. In addition, television provides an excellent means of transmitting other data, such as weather maps, ceiling and visibility information, and traffic instructions.

Essentially, Teleran employs a ground search radar which surveys the air space of interest and displays on a cathode ray tube the information thus received. This radar presentation is viewed by a television camera, a map of the area is superimposed, and the combination picture is broadcast by a television transmitter.

Since the received picture would be confusing if all radar echoes were displayed in all aircraft, and since each pilot is primarily interested only in those aircraft at approximately his own altitude, the Teleran system includes a method of separating radar echoes according to altitude and transmitting a separate picture for each altitude level.

Study Flight Reactions

The Navy has completed plans for construction of the world's largest human centrifuge—to be used in studying man's reactions to forces developed in flight at supersonic speeds and in testing equipment for new high-speed aircraft and rocket projectiles.

A building to house the centrifuge will be built at the Naval Aircraft Modification Unit, Johnsville, Pa., by the Bureau of Yards and Docks. Specifications for the human centrifuge were prepared by the Special Devices Center of the Office of Naval Research, and the project is for joint use by the Bureau of Aeronautics and the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

The human centrifuge will serve as an instrument for more accurately determining man's physiological limitations, and for developing protective devices and means for extending these limits, since aircraft have been designed with performance characteristics that are beyond the physiological limits of man.

These unknown factors are impeding progress in high-speed flights, Naval flight surgeons pointed out.

The Navy's human centrifuge will be the only one in the country capable of simulating actual flight patterns, and the building will contain every device developed for the study of human reactions to air speeds approaching 1,000 miles an hour.

The centrifuge will resemble in principle an amusement park "airplane," with a cab on the end of a long arm that revolves around a central shaft. The subject in the cab will be suspended in an arrangement of gimbals which will allow him to rotate through the center of the car. He also will be able to ride in various positions—prone, supine, sitting or standing.

TOUCHES TELL

Even in little things craftsmanship makes a big difference. You notice this in the smart, new Ternstedt* fittings and appointments — the telling touches found only in the new cars with Body by Fisher.

Outwardly too, how exquisitely well groomed the new Body by Fisher looks. How comfortably it lets you ride. How secure you feel in the greater sturdiness of its solid Unisteel construction.

These are the added values in styling, safety and comfort the Body by Fisher emblem symbolizes. Look for this emblem on the new car you buy. It is the mark of craftsmen whose coachcraft has been recognized for its distinctive excellence for more than 38 years.

Proof that the Martin 2-0-2 cargo-carrier gives greater value per equipment dollar!

Look at the facts about the Martin 2-0-2 cargo-carrier. That's performance! Then remember that Martin has sold over twice as many twin-engine airliners as its nearest competitor. Result: quantity production and a low purchase price. That's economy!

And low original cost is only part of the story. Ease of loading and maintenance . . . reduced flight and turn-around time . . . high dependability and efficiency . . . all these help prove that Martin gives you the greatest value per equipment dollar. For complete specifications on the 2-0-2 cargo-carrier, contact THE GLENN L. MARTIN CO., BALTIMORE 3, MARYLAND.

FAST FACTS ABOUT THE MARTIN 2-0-2 CARGO-CARRIER

- (All performance figures without Jet Exhaust)
- Take-off Gross Weight 40,745 lbs.
 - Payload Capacity 15,100 lbs.
 - Maximum Operational Range (60% Power, 10,000 ft.) 1800 mi. with reserve of 200 mi.—45 min.
 - Operational Ceiling (at T. O. weight, one engine inoperative) 5,000 ft.
 - Maximum Operational Ceiling (T. O. weight, two engines) 26,500 ft.
 - Cruising Speed at 10,000 ft. and 60% Normal Rated Power 246 m.p.h.
 - C. A. R. Runway Length for Landing at Sea Level 3715 ft. at Gross Weight 36,500 lbs.
 - Take-off Distance, over 50 ft., at Sea Level (Water Injection) 2550 ft.
 - Engines P & W R-2800-2SC16G
 - Fuel Consumption, 10,000 ft., 60% Power 156 GAL/HR.
 - Fuel Capacity 1470 GAL.
 - Operating Cost Per Ton-Mile as low as 5 1/2¢
 - Martin cargo planes are now being built for the following airlines: United; Commander.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—Mr. Molotov's angry denunciation of the Paris Conference recommendations in connection with the peace treaties with Finland and the Balkan countries and Italy—which it must be emphasized are merely recommendations with final disposal still in the hands of the Big Four next month—is a further discouraging development on the eve of the meeting of the United Nations' General Assembly next week. The drafts of the Treaties themselves were dubious enough, and the Paris discussions regarding them brought into high light the differences in the aims of the Soviet Union and the Western Powers, differences which were emphasized by demonstrations of military might. It remains to be seen whether the Soviet Foreign Minister will carry out the implied threat of vetoing all decisions (regardless of the two-thirds vote) in which the Soviet delegation was in the minority. This would seem to be indicated by the walk-out of the Russian satellite, Yugoslavia, from the Paris conference in protest against the grant to her of only one-third of the Istrian peninsula, and the control of the free zone of Trieste by a Governor responsible to the United Nations. Marshal Tito has announced that he will appeal to the United Nations, this doubtless inspired by Moscow, and if the appeal be denied, what then? Shall the United States and Great Britain and the Nations associated with them, break diplomatic relations with the Tito Government, and refuse to give further assistance to its people, as we have in the case of Czechoslovakia to which we denied a request for a loan of $90 millions in cash and supplies because of Czech and Soviet charges of "dollar imperialism"? What is hoped is that drastic action can be avoided by the expected demonstration of United Nations Assembly sentiment in support of the Paris decision, and consequent change in Soviet policy.

While Secretary Byrnes denies that the Paris conference was a failure, nevertheless it was unable to reconcile opposing views on major questions such as the economic reconstruction of Europe, reparations, control of the Danube, the Dardanelles, Trieste, etc., or upon the vital problems of Germany and Austria. The differences as a matter of fact are more basic, since they involve the administration ideal of one world against the Soviet purpose to maintain the spheres of influence established in Europe and Asia, which would serve as a stepping stone to communize the rest of the earth.

If Mr. Molotov in New York employs the Russian veto to sustain Yugoslavia, there will be justified the recently expressed anxiety of Premier Smuts of South Africa, that the Paris Conference increased rather than decreased the cleavage between the East and the West. The effect of this continued cleavage upon the UN would be sure and swift, for the Organization's potency is wholly a matter of its "united" character. During the past week, in fact, members of its military staff expressed their convictions (in which they are in full accord with their civilian colleagues) that the only certain path toward a continuing peace is by the ultimate abolition of national military forces, save for mere domestic policing, and the creation of absolutely dominant international forces under the control of the United Nations' Secretary-General. Military men themselves, they view the prospect realistically as a long-term affair, and under no circumstances a unilateral affair—certainly no single nation can relax its individual efforts to guard itself, unless and until all other large nations do the same thing. If, in time, the international force (and that force alone) should be possessed of the atomic bomb supply, the principal strategic air forces, the large naval and armored forces, and through that circumstance should be able to recruit a military establishment truly international rather than national in viewpoint (these are certainly large conditions!) the hopes for world peace in the view of our government would have a firmer foundation. But the thing which the military staff stressed was the need for unanimous decision among the nations, the absence of veto by one power, the multi-lateral agreement to create a United Nations force which would be truly dominant, rather than one made up only of small detachments from the individual nations. It would be folly to stress the military members' hope without balancing it with their warning that agreement must be universal. If we needed to have that folly pointed out to us, Mr. Molotov has met the need.

It cannot be said that the Moscow Radio helped toward a rapprochement by its assurance last Sunday that when Generalissimo Stalin lately spoke of the war spirit being promoted by military men, in order to prevent reduction of their own budgets, he "had the United States in mind." Moscow uses its radio frequently for saying something which no official wishes to say; in this instance a great deal was made of the amount included in our combined War and Navy Department budgets, which the Moscow Radio regarded as exorbitant: the dispatches carry no mention of the much larger amounts which the United States lately expended on munitions which were delivered to Soviet Russia under the lend-lease arrangement. The military budget presented to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) calls for 72 billion rubles—the ruble's exchange value is 5.3 cents. This is 56 billion rubles less than last year's expenditures. For research 5 billion rubles are proposed, an increase to be devoted to the development of atomic and other missiles.

While the Russian inspired press is assailing our Command in Southern Korea for "brutal repression" of strikers, a charge that is, of course, unjustified by facts, Maj. Gen. Archer L. Lerch, United States Military Governor, was approving an ordinance creating an interim legislative assembly to give the people of the zone practically complete but supervised control of their Government. Under the wise policy of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, which General Lerch is carrying out, proof is being given of our purpose to promote the establishment of democratic government, proof that will impress the people under control in the northern Soviet zone. As to China, Washington has further confirmation of the impossibility of bringing about an agreement for peace between the two factions. General of the Army Marshall will come home within a few weeks and when he arrives the President will listen to his advice as to the policy we should pursue with respect to that country. There are reports that General Marshall is being considered for the Ambassadorship to Great Britain. As General of the Army Eisenhower is not interested in political appointments, it can be accepted that he will continue as Chief of Staff.

The French vote upon the new constitution for the Fourth Republic met expectations, which were gloomy. General DeGaulle's opposition was not enough to kill the proposal; it was expressed rather by a one-third abstention from voting. Hence the new constitution won out, with only 36 per cent of the electorate favoring it, a forlorn situation in the mind of those who had hoped for French unity. The National Assembly will be elected next month and members of the second house (the Council of the Republic) thereafter; the two will get around to the election of the President early in 1947. Oddly enough, General DeGaulle, twice defeated, remains the most conspicuous single political figure in France. In the minority as he is, his influence is large, as the negative vote on the constitution shows; unhappily French minorities still dominate, which is a poor augury for that French unity for which the western nations have hoped.

Unification of Service Committees—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn believes that the 80th Congress will accept the reorganization of committees, including the consolidation of the Military and Naval Committees, as provided in the measure passed by the 79th Congress. Mr. Rayburn said this week that while he understands that Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the Naval Committee, plans to fight the committee consolidation, that he himself believes the House will go along with the reorganization.

Asked whether there is any tentative makeup of the Committee on Armed Forces, Speaker Rayburn said "That will depend on who are returned to Congress. It is reasonable to believe that the ranking members of the Military and Naval Committees will compose that committee."

Should Democrats compose the House majority, Representative Carl Vinson, Ga., now chairman of the House Naval Committee, would, by the rule of seniority, be chairman of the newly formed joint committee. If Republicans compose the majority, Representative Walter G. Andrews, N. Y., would be in line for the chairmanship.

Bureau of Medicine and Surgery—The Navy's new Institute of Tropical Medicine, inaugurated in Guam 30 Sept., opens the door to a long-range Navy medical research program designed to bring Pacific Island health standards to an eventual par with those of the continental United States.

Selected because of its central geographical location, Guam's Medical Center will train civilian research workers and university students on a civil service basis.

The Center will include the Institute of Tropical Medicine, which, as a research unit affiliated with a branch in Cairo, now insures complete coverage of the tropical zone; a nursing school, offering a three-year course; a four-year practitioners' school, for native selectees, specializing in community health problems; a laboratory technicians' school; a Guam Memorial hospital, of 1,000 beds; and a proposed hospital for tubercular patients.

Trainees of the Tropical Medicine School will receive instruction in the diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of tropical diseases; yaws, filariasis, dengue fever, malaria, intestinal parasites, etc.

Speakers on the inaugural program at the Naval Hospital chapel included Rear Adm. Harold W. Smith, USN (Ret.), former head of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, recalled especially for this mission; Commo. W. E. Kellum, Pacific Fleet Medical Officer; and Dr. Victor Heiser, whose outstanding 14 years as Public Health Administrator in the Philippines mark him an authority in the medical world.

Operations Crossroads—The method whereby physicians were chosen to participate in the two atom bomb tests at Bikini has been sharply criticized by the Medical Veterans Association of Los Angeles County on grounds that the "utterly farcical and haphazard manner in which medical observers were selected" from the Los Angeles area lessened the "solemnity and significance" of these history-making tests. In their own paper, the Medical Veterans declared:

"The group of physicians selected were obviously neither distinguished for their particular experience or scientific interest in radiology, nor chosen because of sacrifice or valor in service to the country in time of war. It would appear that the grave responsibility of selection was looked upon as a trifling matter and perhaps used to pay off social or political obligations. Certainly the local expedition had all the characteristics of a pleasure jaunt at government expense, concerned neither with solemnity nor significance worthy of the historic occasion."

The same editorial inquires how the group benefited from their service—whether they were commissioned in the Naval Reserve and thereby entitled to benefits of the GI Bill of Rights—or whether they were paid salaries.

Task Force One has denied accusations that doctors were chosen haphazardly. They point out that the task of mustering an adequately-sized staff of radiological safety engineers under Col. Stafford Warren was an extraordinary job, and that even now the Navy lacks enough radiological safety engineers to carry on the projects it would like to undertake in this field. The scientists chosen from civil life for this purpose were paid salaries and were in no way members of the military organization.

Through the National Academy of Sciences, the Navy invited 30 scientists to Bikini as observers. The National Academy of Sciences made the selections from among the many scientists in the United States, but, the Navy declared this week, only 24 actually went to Bikini.

Medical Department—After one year of occupation of Japan, the American troops continue to be "an exceptionally healthy body of troops" with "no major outbreaks of epidemic diseases," according to a report by the Eighth Army Surgeon's office.

Veneral disease, which reached a peak rate in February of this year, has continued to recede, and is now at its lowest ebb since entrance into Japan, according to the report. The prevalence rate, which is the percentage of a command sick at any one time, was 0.51 per cent on August 30, 1946. This is less than 1 in 100, and means only 5 soldiers out of 1000 were being treated for venereal disease on that day.

Concerning the upward trend of disease among the troops at the beginning of the occupation, the report states: "The seasonal peak was reached during the month of March, has gradually receded since that time, and at present is lower than at any time since the occupation began."

Regarding the danger of new disease outbreaks in moving from the South Pacific to Japan, the surgeon's report said: "Major epidemic diseases, any one of which might have exploded into a major catastrophe, have failed to materialize. These include epidemic typhus, malaria, influenza, Japanese B-encephalitis, cholera, smallpox, and bacillary dysentery."

Brig. Gen. Joseph I. Martin, who has just returned from overseas where he was Chief Surgeon, U. S. Army Forces, Pacific, has arrived at Brooke Army Medical Center to assume his duties as Deputy Commandant, Brig. Gen. John M. Mills, Commandant, BAMC announced.

Maj. Joseph A. O'Neill has been appointed Commander of Troops at Army Medical Department Schools, at Brooke Army Medical Center, according to an announcement by Col. William E. Shambora, Commandant of Schools.

Organized in May to conduct research in public health problems and to study the medical problems of a large occupation army, the 406th Medical General Laboratory has completed a move from Yokohama to Tokyo. The unit is under the command of Lt. Col. W. D. Tigertt.

Col. W. A. Boyle recently arrived in Berlin to take over the position of District Surgeon at Headquarters Berlin District. He was recently in the Office of the Surgeon General in Washington.

Office of Naval Research—Appointment of 10 members of the newly established civilian Naval Research Advisory Committee was announced this week by Secretary Forrestal following the Committee's first meeting. The group was authorized by Public Law 588, which gave permanent authorization to the Office of Naval Research.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy W. John Kenney said that "with the appointment of the Naval Research Committee it is hoped to bring to the assistance of the Navy in its many research problems the experiences and knowledge of these men preeminent in their individual fields of endeavor in the scientific world."

Members include Rear Admiral Luis de Florez USNR, until recently Assistant Chief of Naval Research; Rear Admiral Lewis L. Strauss USNR, now on inactive duty, an outstanding authority on Army and Navy material procurement problems during the war; and Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of MIT, who served as a member of the Presidential Evaluation Committee and the Joint Chiefs of Staff Evaluation Board for the Bikini atom bomb tests.

Army Medical Library—At meetings in Washington, 4 and 5 Oct., the Association of Honorary Consultants to the Army Medical Library urged early action for a new library building. Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, The Surgeon General of the Army, at a dinner for the members of the Association, said that it was planned to ask Congress at the next session for enabling legislation to build the library and that it was hoped to include the request for funds in the 1948 budget. The 110-year-old library is now housed in a non-fireproof structure which was built in 1887. Other addresses at the dinner, which was presided over by Dr. John F. Fulton, Professor of Physiology of Yale University and President of the Association, were given by Col. Leon L. Gardner, The Director of the Library; Professor Max H. Fisch, University of Illinois, former Chief of the Medical History Division, Army Medical Library, and Dr. Reginald Fitz, Lecturer on Historical Medicine, Harvard University.

Bureau of Supplies and Accounts—Completing the changeover of ships service stores afloat to ship's stores, all ship's services activities afloat will be disestablished effective 30 Nov. On 1 Dec., at the desire of commanding officers, ship's stores will be established and operated in accordance with "Regulations for Ships without Supply Officers" (chapter three, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts Manual, publication 80). Details of the changeover are contained in Alnav 559.

Capt. James H. Stevens has become Director of Supply in the Bureau, replacing Rear Admiral Walter A. Buck, who was sworn in 1 Oct. as Chief of the Bureau. Capt. Onnie P. Lattu relieved Capt. Stevens as Assistant Director of Supply.

The Supply Corps School's new establishment at the Naval Supply Depot, Bayonne, N. J. was formally opened in ceremonies there 16 Oct. when 150 transferees from the line of the Navy began training for their new duties as supply officers. Rear Admiral Horace D. Nuber, SC, Assistant Chief of the Bureau, was principal speaker.

Other speakers were Rear Admiral Monroe Kelly, Commandant of the Third Naval District; Commodore J. K. Richards, retired, Executive Director of the Navy Industrial Association; and Comdr. Carl Faires, SC, Supply Officer in Command of the school. The school in Bayonne can accommodate 300 trainees.

Adjutant General's Department—To furnish field commanders with the records of reservists under their control, the qualification cards of all Reserve Officers not on active duty will be microfilmed and sent to major commands, Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, The Adjutant General, said this week. This project which involves approximately 590,000 records, will be started in the near future and is expected to be completed in 2½ months. Of the total number of qualification cards to be microfilmed, about 290,000 pertain to Ground and Service Force officers and about 300,000 apply to Air Corps Reservists.

Maj. Gen. William I. Rose, former Adjutant General of Massachusetts, who recently was named as commanding general of the 26th Division, was a visitor in Washington this week and called on Gen. Witsell.

Col. Hugh J. Deeney, at present chairman of the Downgrading Committee, has been ordered to Fort Bliss.

Col. Clifton C. Carter, chief of the Technical Information Branch, AGO, left on leave this week preparatory to entering the AG School for the term beginning 7 Nov. He was replaced by Col. Sidney F. Mashbir, formerly special assistant to Assistant The Adjutant General for Management.

Col. Vernon W. Rice, chief of the Army Publication Service, this week inspected the Translation Branch, AGO, in New York City.

Col. Kenneth C. Jones, a member of the Downgrading Committee, is a patient at the Fort Belvoir hospital.

Col. Kenneth B. Bush, Assistant The Adjutant General for Administrative Services, returned from leave Thursday.

Lt. Col. George K. Wolfe, recently integrated into the Regular Army, departed on leave this week. He will visit in Illinois and then report to the AG School, on 7 Nov.

Army Chaplains Corps—Ceremonies on 17 Oct., commemorated the 37th anniversary of the Ft. Sam Houston Post Chapel as a symbol of the close tie that exists between San Antonio and the Army. The chapel was a gift from the people of the city to the men of the military service and there is reason to believe it was the first such building to be erected on a military reservation by popular subscription. Chaplain Joseph O. Ensrud is present Post Chaplain.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) J. H. Vorleis, has been appointed Supervising Chaplain for the Military District of Washington by Brig. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, Commanding General, Military District of Washington. In this capacity, Chaplain Vorleis will supervise religious activities in all military units of the District of Columbia, 7 southern counties in Maryland, and 6 northern counties of the state of Virginia. He succeeds Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Harold H. Schulz who was relieved to attend courses at American University.

Chaplain (Maj.) John R. Strevig, Officer-in-Charge, Miscellaneous Division, represented the Office of the Chief of Chaplains at the Second Annual Convention of the State of Pennsylvania Amvets held at Lancaster, 5 and 6 Oct. 1946. Chaplain Strevig spoke at the banquet and conducted a Memorial service on Sunday afternoon.

Navy Nurse Corps—Climaxing 29 years of service in the Navy Nurse Corps, Lt. Comdr. Stella Terrell (NC) USN was guest of honor at a large party given recently by the entire staff of the Naval Air Station at Dallas, Texas. It was with regret that her co-workers saw Miss Terrell off to a well-earned retirement.

Three members of the Navy Nurse Corps took part recently in a Navy Nurse panel discussion held during the meeting of the American Association of Military Surgeons in Detroit: Lt. Comdr. Mildred Terrell (NC) USN spoke on "Nursing on Hospital Ships"; Lt. Comdr. C. Edwina Todd (NC) USN, discussed "Nursing Under Fire"; and Lt. Comdr. Emily G. Purvis (NC) USN, presented aspects of "Nursing Incident to Air Evacuation."

Lt. Comdr. Anna E. Redding (NC) USN, leaves the Naval Hospital at Quantico, Va., to take up duty in the Hawaiian Islands, at Alea Heights, near Honolulu.

Lt. Comdr. Ellen N. Dolloff (NC) USN, reports to the National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md., from the Hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Field Artillery—Headquarters of the Field Artillery School and the Post were consolidated Tuesday, Maj. Gen. Clift Andrus, commanding general announced. The consolidation was ordered by the War Department as an economy measure to eliminate duplication of headquarters at posts, camps, stations, air bases, and training centers.

At Fort Sill the principal activities are the nation's only Field Artillery School and the Army Ground Forces Air Training School. The 1864th Army Service Unit here was charged with administrative function of Fort Sill, and the technical services such as; Quartermaster, Signal, Special Services, Chaplains, etc.

Under the new setup General Andrus will be commanding general, Fort Sill and commandant of the Field Artillery School and AGF Air Training School. He will be assisted by Brig. Gen. John Millikin, as deputy Post Commander. Col. Everett C. Williams will act as executive officer. Other members of the consolidated staff include:

S-1 (Personnel) Col. Julius E. Slack; S-2 (Intelligence) Col. Mercer C. Walter; S-3 (Operations) Col. James F. Brittingham; S-4 (Supply) Lt. Col. Wayne Hardman, Jr.; Adjutant General, Lt. Col. James F. Barber, Jr.

Chaplain, Maj. William L. Cooper; Chemical officer, acting Lt. Col. Robert W. Jackson; Engineer, Lt. Col. Oran C. Stovall; Finance officer, Lt. Col. Robert C. Davie. Information and Education officer, Capt. Newton B. Wilkerson; Inspector General, Col. Raymond G. Miller; Ordnance officer, Lt. Col. George F. Bashaw; Personal Affairs, Capt. Christopher H. Bonnet.

Post Exchange officer, Lt. Col. John S. Moran; Provost Marshal, Maj. Victor E. Warner; Public Relations Officer, Capt. Jack G. Westbrook; Quartermaster, Lt. Col. John W. Long.

Signal Officer, Lt. Col. Robert W. Jackson; Special Services officer, Capt. Carl Patterson; Staff Judge Advocate, Maj. Earl W. Brown; Surgeon, Col. Don G. Hill-drup; Surplus Property officer, Capt. Edward O. Miller and Transportation officer, Maj. Ira Potter.

Col. Thomas E. deShazo will continue as assistant commandant of the Field Artillery School, Col. William W. Ford as assistant commandant of the AGF Air Training School, and Col. John F. Bird as commanding officer of the 5th Field Artillery Group.

Marine Corps—Postgraduate courses in engineering, for which applications may be submitted, have been outlined for Marine Corps officers of the rank of Major and below. To be eligible for the training, applicants must have had schooling through differential and integral calculus equivalent to that required for a B.S. degree in mechanical, civil, aeronautical, or electrical engineering, or in applied physics.

The advanced specialized training courses to which qualified Marine officers will be assigned are:

Electronic Engineering, two years at MIT; Electronic Engineering, three years at the U. S. Naval Academy Post Graduate School; and Ordnance Engineering (Guided Missiles), three years at the U. S. Naval Academy Post Graduate School.

Applicants must certify that they will not submit resignations during the course of instruction or for three years thereafter, according to Letter of Instruction 1346.

National Guard—New Jersey National Guard units of the 50th Armored Division were inspected for Federal recognition 14 Oct. at the National Guard Armory, Newark. Units inspected included: Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Medical Detachment, CCR, Division Trains and Headquarters CO. It is contemplated that 65 additional New Jersey units will be presented for recognition within the next few months.

Service Company, 110th Infantry, is the first unit of the Pennsylvania National Guard to gain Federal recognition, and Service Battery, 107th Field Artillery Battalion, the second. Thirty-two other companies, troops, batteries or detachments either have been inspected and are awaiting notice of recognition, or have applied for recognition and are awaiting the visit of Regular Army inspectors.

Governor Dwight H. Green has announced the appointment of four commanding officers for units of the 44th Division, Illinois National Guard, as follows: Col. Paul E. Warfield, Col. Shewood Dixon, Col. Earl E. Rumbaugh and Col. Gerald B. Lahey.

Twenty units of the California National Guard have now been activated in major cities throughout the state and authorization has been received from the National Guard Bureau for activation of an additional 11 units, Brig. Gen. Curtis D. O'Sullivan, Adjutant General, has announced.

Reduction of Naval Grades—An unconfirmed rumor is current in Washington that Secretary Forrestal has received a recommendation from a prominent flag officer that, as an economy measure, all officers be reduced by one temporary rank, and that more ships be deactivated than under present fleet plans. The reduction-in-rank, if carried out, would mean mass demotions in every rank except among Captains, a good number of whom are permanent Captains.

Responsible officials within the Bureau of Naval Personnel have denied that such demotions would be likely to be approved. Even with the pay increase voted last June by Congress, they feel that making the service attractive to capable officers is no easy task, and that a huge flood of resignations would follow such a move. On the contrary, the Bureau is proceeding with plans for a new promotion system, the main purpose of which is to assure young officers now entering the Navy a promising career. Under this promotion plan, none of the present temporary ranks will be reduced when the change over is made to a permanent system.

Transportation Corps—In the closing phases of an intensive amphibian and high-way training program designed to provide "in-the-field" unit training, members of the Fort Eustis, Va., 7th Training Regiment during the past week staged realistic unloading and landing operations under simulated combat conditions on a "mock" Omaha Beach at Camp Bradford and Little Creek, Va.

Utilizing the Lambert Cadwalder, a Liberty ship assigned to Fort Eustis for training purposes, the troops were put through six different phases of difficult unloading and landing problems, climaxed by a simulated task force landing to "re-take" beach positions previously evacuated after a heavy "enemy" aerial bombardment. Many situations were deliberately created requiring utilization of field expedients and individual resourcefulness by all units concerned.

Completing centralizing all phases of supply of Army transports operating out of the San Francisco Port of Embarkation, Brig. Gen. N. H. McKay, Port Commander, has directed the setting up of a Vessel Supply Branch in Port Water Division.

The new branch consolidated requisitioning, assembling, warehousing and delivering of supplies for all transport departments—deck, engine, steward, administrative among them. Lt. Col. John P. McGuinness, TC, was named Chief of Branch and Maj. Frederick C. Iverson, Executive Officer.

Maj. Gen. Homer N. Groninger, former Commanding General of the New York and San Francisco Ports of Embarkation, and now on terminal leave prior to retirement, was a recent visitor to SFPOE and Fort Lawton, touring port facilities and other TC installations.

Fifty-two government leased facilities located in the Puget Sound area have been relinquished by the Seattle Port of Embarkation since V-J Day, it was announced by Col. Fenton S. Jacobs, Port Commander. Rentals for the property total $338,216 a year.

Military District of Washington—The following staff changes have been announced by the Commanding General, Military District of Washington.

Col. Clifton A. Pritchett, GSC, has returned to duty as Chief of Staff. Col. Cornelius C. Jadwin, GSC, who was assigned as Acting Chief of Staff during Colonel Pritchett's leave of absence, has reverted to his duties as Headquarters Commandant.

Lt. Col. Harold P. Ballif, FA, has been announced as Executive Officer, Organized Reserve Corps with offices at 2145 C Street N.W., Washington, in addition to his other duties.

Lt. Col. George A. Walk, QMC, Command Quartermaster with 8th Army Air Force Composite Command from August 1944 to March 1945, was recalled to active duty 6 Oct and has been assigned as Quartermaster for Military District of Washington. He replaces Lt. Col. George E. Eaton who will depart in the near future for a Quartermaster assignment in Manila, Philippine Islands.

Lt. Col. Edwin A. Deagle, Transportation Corps, is the new Transportation Officer replacing Maj. Robert L. Schulz who has commenced duties as special assistant to General Eisenhower.

Bureau of Naval Personnel—The present intention of the Bureau is to keep all temporary USN line officers of the rank of Ensign and above on active duty at least during the remainder of fiscal year 1947, except those who request release from active duty and transfer to the Fleet Reserve or reversion to permanent status.

The reversion of line temporary warrant and commissioned warrant officers to their permanent enlisted status has been completed except for a few remaining cases which will be completed in the near future.

Ordnance Department—Brig. Gen. Edward W. Smith (Lt. Col. Ord.) and Col. Chalmers K. McClelland, Jr., (Capt. Ord.) have been ordered retired by a disability board as of 31 Oct.

Maj. Gilvary P. Grant has been transferred from Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., to White Sands Proving Ground, Las Cruces, New Mexico.

Lt. Col. Sidney F. Musselman, formerly stationed at Aberdeen and recently detailed with Operations Crossroads; Major Ernest D. Finch, Jr., former executive officer of Research and Development Service, OCO, and Maj. Eugene L. Saley, acting Chief, Office Service Division, OCO, have been ordered to separation centers.

U. S. Naval Academy—Members of the Class of 1916, famed for 32 high ranking Navy and Marine Corps officers, met at Annapolis this week in observance of its thirtieth anniversary. They are planning to erect a bronze plaque at the Academy in memory of class officers who gave their lives for their country. The class has 32 members who became flag officers in the Navy or generals in the Marine Corps.

Among the outstanding classmen were Admiral Henry W. Mullinix, naval aviator, killed on the carrier USS Liscombe Bay during the Gilbert Islands invasion; Capt. Cassin Young, commander of the fighting cruiser San Francisco in the Solomons; Rear Admiral D. P. Moon, commander of the task force off Normandy on D-day, and Rear Admiral Charles P. Cecil, who was killed in a Pacific plane crash.

Antiaircraft Artillery—Because of the increasing influx of selectees and recruits, the Fort Bliss Antiaircraft Replacement Training Center has reactivated the 57th and the 58th AARTC Battalions, Col. Evan C. Seaman, Commanding Officer of the AARTC, has announced. The new Battalions are part of the 12th AART Group commanded by Col. L. E. Shaw. Other Battalions of the group are the 53rd and 59th.

A feature of the 12th Group is the new consolidated mess, equipped to feed in excess of 1900 troops. Capt. Kenneth N. Tannenbaum is the officer in charge of the modern three-wing cafeteria-type mess.

With the activation of the two new units, the AARTC now has nine Battalions, including those in the 12th Group already named and five in the 11th AART Group, participating in the Fort Bliss AARTC program. These organizations are devoted entirely to the training of incoming Antiaircraft enlisted men for overseas replacement.

Lt. Col. Fredrick L. Van Atta, a veteran of both World Wars and former commanding officer of the 51st AART Battalion, has been appointed commanding officer of the 57th Battalion. Major Andrew R. Grant has been named executive officer of the reactivated unit.

The new commander of the 58th Battalion is Lt. Col. Perley L. Everett, veteran of the Asiatic Pacific war theater and past commanding officer of the 59th AART Battalion. Major Ruben W. Munday is executive officer for the unit.

Signal Corps—Having completed more than twenty-eight years of service with the Army, Col. William A. Marsh recently relinquished his post as Commanding Officer of the Signal Training Regiment at Fort Monmouth preparatory to retirement. His successor is Col. Frank H. Curtis who has been on duty as Executive Officer of the Signal Corps Schools.

A new light-weight, flexible communications wire—developed by the Signal Corps

Engineering Laboratories—has been standardized for general field use by the Army.

Commonly called "Infantry Wire", the new type represents a successful effort to combine the substantial talking range and other characteristics of field wire with the small size and portability of assault wire.

Although the final characteristics and tactical employment will be determined by further development by the Signal Corps and by extensive field use, Infantry wire is recognized as a complete replacement for assault wire and a partial replacement for field wire.

Infantry wire (WD-1/TT in Signal Corps nomenclature) provides a talking range equal to that of field wire yet its weight is only about 46 pounds per mile, about one-third that of field wire. Its diameter is .084 inches, about one-half that of field wire.

The Legion of Merit has been awarded to the following: Col. Charles H. Judson for service with the Signal Security Agency, Military Intelligence Service, War Department; Col. Harold G. Hayes for service as Chief, Intelligence Branch, Army Security Agency; and to Lt. Col. John F. Rider for services in the preparation and production of Signal Corps technical manuals.

Infantry—Officer Candidate (now 2nd Lt.) Joseph M. Gay Jr., of Texas City, Tex., was the honor graduate this week of OC Class 542 of the 3rd Student Training Regiment at The Infantry School. Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, Commandant of The Infantry School, was the guest speaker at commencement exercises held in the 3rd STR Bowl and also pinned gold bars on the newly commissioned officers.

Last week Capt. George F. McCullough handed over his duties as adjutant of the Academic Regiment, The Infantry School, to Lt. Edward Walsh and returned to Minneapolis, Minn., and civilian life. Captain McCullough was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon prior to leaving Fort Benning.

Finance Department—Col. Eugene M. Foster Ass't Chief of Finance, Col. Emmett J. Bean, Chief, Administrative Management Division, and Col. Harold F. Chrisman, Chief, Budget and Fiscal Branch, OCF, departed from Washington as members of a board of officers appointed to make a survey of the Army Finance Center, OCF, St. Louis, Mo. for the purpose of effecting further operating economies. Col. James B. Haley, Chief of the Audit Division, OCF, will be Acting Assistant Chief of Finance during Col. Foster's absence.

Maj. William E. Reichmuth, Jr., Chief, Regulations Section, Service Branch, Receipts & Disbursements Division, OCF, made an inspection of separation center finance activities at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., last week.

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, was a visitor at the Army Finance Center, OCF, in St. Louis, Mo.

Maj. Gen. William H. Kasten, Chief of Finance, U. S. Army, presented the Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal to Col. Ernest O. Lee, Chief, Military Personnel Branch, OCF, at a ceremony in his office last week which was attended by all Division Chiefs of the OCF.

The following officers have been recently assigned to the OCF: Capt. Charles F. Austin, to the Civilian Pay Roll Section, Miscellaneous Audit Branch, Audit Division; Capt. Frederick J. Decker, to the Price Adjustment Collection Branch, Special Financial Services Division. Capt. Austin previously served at Fort Hayes, Ohio; Capt. Decker was disbursing officer, 169th Finance Disbursing Section in France and Belgium.

Quartermaster Corps—In an intensive food research program, 80 colleges, universities, and other agencies throughout the United States are collaborating with the Quartermaster Corps to improve the properties of foods and rations.

During the next operational year approximately 5,000,000 cans of bread will be issued to American troops in the United States and abroad, replacing the war-time ration biscuits. Canned bread is being issued in two sizes; a can containing four ounces for the E ration, and one of 10½ ounces with the five-in-one ration. The canned bread in the two sizes was tested in mountain maneuvers by the Army Ground Forces in Colorado during September. As soon as sufficient quantities are produced they will be issued for testing at other stations in the United States, in the Alaska maneuvers next winter, and in the European Theater.

Army Dental Corps—A limited number of dental internships and reserve commissions are offered senior class students in approved dental schools by the Army. Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, The Surgeon General, stated that those students selected will be given reserve commissions as first lieutenants and placed on an active duty status for one year in an Army dental clinic.

Internships will be of the approved rotating type and include training in oral diagnosis, roentgenology, prosthetics, oral surgery, periodontia and operative dentistry.

AMONG the many farewell parties given in compliment to the retiring Chilean Ambassador and Senora de Mora, was the dinner party given Friday evening by Fleet Admiral and Mrs. Chester W. Nimitz, who entertained a company of twenty-four at their quarters at the Naval Observatory.

Coming east from Fort Riley for the re-opening of the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, the first show since 1941, will be Col. Earl F. Thompson, head of the horsemanship department of the Cavalry School, a veteran of two Olympic Games, who is to captain the team. Riding with him will be Col. Franklin F. Wing, who rode on the Army show in '41; also Col. Milo H. Matteson, Col. Sterling Wright, a former aide to Secretary of War Stimson; Lt. Col. Charles A. Symroski, all instructors at the Cavalry School. Of particular interest to the Army will be the international jumping class, as an Army team is to represent the U. S. Army riders who will compete against horsemen from Mexico, Peru and Canada.

The National Horse Show opens with all old-time color and glamor on 4 Nov. Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry, Ret., will be a judge for the international classes as will also General Mana, an officer of the Canadian army.

Mrs. Henry will serve on the women's entertainment committee, as will also Mrs. John S. Wise, Mrs. Andrew Montgomery, Mrs. David Wagstaff of Tuxedo, mother of Col. David Wagstaff, well known horseman of the "Rides" at Fort Myer, when he was stationed there.

Club rooms for the officers and those taking part will be at the Waldorf, and luncheons, cocktail parties, dinners and supper parties are now being arranged.

General and Mrs. Henry's daughter, Mrs. "Wirt" Williams, an equestrienne well-known herself, wife of Colonel Williams, now stationed in Japan, who has been staying with them, will miss the horse show, as she leaves this week for Fort Riley to visit her sister, Mrs. Howse, and Colonel Howse, en route to Seattle, MISS Rosemary Walker, daughter of Col. and Mrs. I. G. Walker, of Atlanta, Georgia, became the bride of Capt. Joseph O'Leary, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. O'Leary, Houston, Texas, in a ceremony at St. Francis Xavier Church held lately in Kyoto, Japan. The wedding was performed by Chaplain Lt. Col. James A. Dunn.

Lt. Col. James W. Strain of the 34th Infantry regiment acted as best man. Miss Anita Ray Walker, the bride's sister, was maid of honor.

Ushers for Capt. O'Leary were Lt. Col. Robert Daniels, Major Elmer Van Zant, Major O. E. Holher, Major P. M. Watrous, Capt. J. A. Wiley, and Capt. D. W. Hoadley.

Among those attending the ceremony were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. R. B. Woodruff, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. James A. Lester, and Mrs. David Parker, wife of Colonel Parker.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Miyako Hotel. In the receiving line were Lt. Col. Strain, Colonel and Mrs. Walker, General and Mrs. Lester, Miss Anita Ray Walker, and the bride and groom. Mrs. Woodruff and Mrs. Hugh Cort served, and Mrs. David Parker had charge of the bride's book.

Mrs. O'Leary was graduated from the University of Alabama in the class of '45, and is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha, national sorority.

Captain O'Leary was graduated from Texas A and M, the Infantry School, and the Command and General Staff School. He served with the 41st Division in the Philippines, and is now aide-de-camp to Maj. Gen. James A. Lester, 24th Division CG.

The couple will spend their honeymoon at the Fuji View Hotel near Tokyo.

Monday evening, 7 Oct., at the Bolling Field Chapel, Miss Mary Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Cooper of Detroit, became the bride of 1st Lt. William L. Walker, of Visalia, Calif.

The bride arrived in Washington by plane from Detroit, 6 Oct., and her sister, Miss Hetty Cooper, who was maid of honor at the wedding, arrived Monday and left shortly after the ceremony.

Protestant Chaplain Thomas E. Pardue, Jr., officiated and Capt. Eugene W. Graham, of Sacramento acted as best man.

Both Lt. Walker and the best man, Capt. Graham, are stationed at Strategic Air Command Headquarters at Bolling Field, D. C., where Lt. Walker is Assistant Recruiting Officer.

Following the ceremony at the Bolling Field Chapel, a reception was held at the Casino Royal Club in Washington. The couple will honeymoon at the home

Miss Geraldine Claire Jaynes, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Alfred Beman Jaynes of Arlington, Va., became the bride of Mr. Marshall V. Yount, son of Judge and Mrs. M. H. Yount of Hickory, N. C., on Saturday evening, 12 Oct. The bride was given in marriage by her father, who arrived from Paris, France, to attend his daughter's wedding. Lieutenant Colonel Jaynes is presently Chief of Claims, Western Section, ETO. He was previously assigned to duty in The Provost Marshal General's Office, Washington, D. C.

The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon at Sea Island, Ga., and will make their home in Hickory, N. C.

Col. and Mrs. Harry Emerson Storms announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian Alice, to Edward Alexander Owen, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George B. Owen of New York City.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Red Bank High School, Red Bank, N. J., and is a member of the Army-Navy Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mr. Owen is a graduate of the Cooper Union School of Engineering, New York City. During the war he served as a Lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve.

The wedding will take place 16 Nov. in Washington, D. C.

In St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Washington, D. C., on Saturday 5 Oct., Miss Jacqueline Klunk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Klunk of Alexandria, Va., became the bride of Lt. (jg) Harry Winchester Benson, Jr., USNR, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry W. Benson of Washington, D. C. The Rev. John J. Dessel officiated at Nuptial Mass.

Dressed in a white satin gown with a finger-tip veil and carrying a white prayer book with orchids, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Lois Klunk.

Mr. Ernest Ott served as best man and the ushers were Mr. John MacDonald and Mr. James Schwartz, classmates of the bridegroom.

The bride was graduated from Notre Dame Academy and attended Immaculate Junior College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Canon City High School, Canon City, Colo., and The Catholic University of America. He recently returned from duty overseas where he served for nearly two years with the Amphib. Forces of southwest and central Pacific theatres.

After a honeymoon in New York City, the couple will live at 3727 D Street, S.E. Washington, D. C., while the bridegroom does post-graduate work at The Catholic University.

At a simple double-ring ceremony at a Fort Lewis chapel on Wednesday, 9 Oct., Capt. Robert F. Spitzmiller exchanged marriage vows with Miss Frances G. Davis, daughter of Mrs. Fred C. Davis, Columbus, Ga.

The Protestant ceremony was performed by Chaplain John L. George. Capt. Ralph DeKemper acted as best man, while Capt. Edward Basse gave the bride away. Mrs. Davis, the bride's mother, was matron of honor.

Guests at the wedding included Col. W. B. Kern, Maj. J. J. Patritch, Capt. P. S. Miller, Lt. J. H. King and Lt. W. C. Cannon.

Captain Spitzmiller and his bride will reside in Olympia, Wash., after returning from a wedding trip to Vancouver, British Columbia.

The marriage of Miss June Whaley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Whaley of Davenport, Iowa, to Capt. William Dick Porter, USMC, son of Col. W. C. Porter, MC, USA, has been announced. The marriage took place at Park Methodist Church, Davenport, Iowa on 17 Sept.

Captain Porter, who served with the First Marines at Pelelieu, Okinawa, and North China, has been commissioned in the Regular Marine Corps and will report for duty at San Francisco within a few days.

The Naval Academy Class of 1916 observed its thirtieth anniversary last week by holding a reunion of its members in Annapolis and in several distant stations. On Friday about fifty members of the class, and their wives gathered in Annapolis and opened the festivities with cocktails at the Alumni House on King George St., followed by a dinner-dance Friday night at North Severn Officers' Mess. On Saturday afternoon three busses were chartered to take the party to Baltimore for the Navy-Duke football game, after which they returned to Annapolis for a dinner-dance at Carvel Hall. During the evening greetings were exchanged by telephone, with classmates in San Diego, Honolulu and Manila. The three day reunion closed Sunday morning with services in the Naval Academy Chapel.

Comdr. W. W. Fife, USN-Ret., and Mrs. Fife, who will soon leave Annapolis and return to their former home on the west coast, gave a large cocktail party last Thursday afternoon at the Naval Academy Officers' Club. Among those attending were: Capt. Franklin D. Karns, Capt. and Mrs. William C. Schultz, Capt. and Mrs. Leon F. Brown, Comdr. and Mrs. C. S. Walsh, Comdr. and Mrs. Robert Maury, Comdr. and Mrs. Jerome A. Lee, Capt. and Mrs. R. F. Freilisen, Capt. and Mrs. Earl P. Huff, Capt. Robert Dashiell, Capt. and Mrs. Donald McClellan, Mrs. Gates Sickle, Comdr. and Mrs. H. C. Rule, Jr., Capt. and Mrs. E. M. Tillson, and Capt. and Mrs. John B. Mallard. Capt. and Mrs. Robert Jasperson entertained last Sunday morning at a cocktail party at their home at Ferry Farms. Captain Jasperson is leaving for the west coast enroute to China for sea duty and Mrs. Jasperson will remain here with her young son, Michael.

Comdr. and Mrs. Charles Meigs of Washington, spent last week-end with Comdr. Meigs' parents, Comdr. and Mrs. John F. Meigs aboard their yacht "Kildeer" which is anchored near Annapolis.

Mrs. Rene deRussy, wife of Major deRussy, USA, has returned to her home in Fairfax, Va., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Pickering of Ferry Farms.

Capt. and Mrs. Earle P. Huff who are the house guests of Capt. and Mrs. R. F. Freilisen at their home in Wardour, are visiting Capt. and Mrs. C. J. Brown on Long Island.

Capt. and Mrs. Clarkson Bright who have been living in Los Angeles for the past few years, are planning to return to Annapolis and will occupy their former home on Market St.

WEST POINT, N. Y.

14 Oct. 1946

Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, has announced the award of the Meritorious Service Unit Plaque to the USMA Band and Field Music Detachment for service performed during the period of 15 Jan. to 1 Sept., 1946. The award was made upon the recommendation of Col. Robert F. Sink, Commanding Officer of the 1902nd Special Regiment, and with the concurrence of Brig. Gen. Gerald J. Higgins, Commandant of Cadets.

The Band and Field Music Detachment is commanded by Lt. Col. Harry A. Stella, and is directed by Capt. F. E. Resta, Teacher of Music at the Military Academy. Stars may be added to the plaque and the prescribed Meritorious Unit Insignia may be worn by personnel of the detachment.

General Taylor paid tribute to the military and professional efficiency of the detachment and to its maintenance of a high spirit, morale, and devotion to duty. The citation reads in part: "During the period indicated, the performance of duty by personnel of this detachment has been superior. On numerous and frequent occasions the USMA Band and Field Music Detachment participated in honor guard ceremonies, parades and reviews for distinguished guests of many nations. In every instance, the smart appearance, soldierly bearing and musical ability attracted much favorable comment from both military and civilian visitors."

"Further, the USMA Band and Field Music Detachment has on multiple occasions voluntarily appeared beyond the call of normal duty in civilian centers. These performances have done much to contribute to the high degree of good will manifested toward the Military Academy and the U. S. Army by inhabitants of proximate localities. On trips accompanying the U. S. Corps of Cadets the detachment has received nationwide recognition of their skill, demeanor and dignity of bearing, reflecting credit on the military service."

Mrs. M. M. Brown gave a tea at the Brick Officers Club 18 Sept. in honor of her house guest Mrs. William E. Park of Coral Gables, Florida. Mrs. Haydon A. Sears and Mrs. P. E. Brown presided at the tea table. Thirty guests attended the tea.

A luncheon bridge in honor of Mrs. Lurli Mount, Elizabethtown, Ky., whose forthcoming marriage has been announced, was given at the Brick Officers' Club by Mrs. Howard E. Van Kaevel. Twenty guests were present for luncheon and bridge.

Mrs. Frederick Hawksworth and Mrs. Richard H. Chapman were co-hostesses at the monthly luncheon bridge of the ladies of the 758th Tank Battalion. Guests of honor were Mrs. John W. Leonard, Mrs. Redding F. Perry and Mrs. Robert E. O'Brien. This was the first of the monthly affairs that Mrs. O'Brien, wife of the Battalion Commander, had attended.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Thompson and Mrs. Madison W. Thomas were joint hostesses at the regular monthly luncheon-bridge of the ladies of the Armored School Communications Department. The affair was held at the Officers Central Mess.

Mrs. Robert N. Baker and Mrs. George C. Fairbanks were hostesses at the monthly luncheon-bridge of the ladies of the Armored School Tactics Department, at the Brick Officers Club. Mrs. John W. Leonard, Mrs. Maurice W. Daniel, Mrs. Haydon A. Sears and Mrs. M. M. Brown were guests of honor.

The personnel of the Fort Knox station hospital held their second monthly formal dance at the Brick Officers Club 19 Sept. Chaplain John Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

THE ARMORED SCHOOL

12 Oct. 1946

Maj. Gen. John W. Leonard, commandant of the Armored School and post commander; Brig. Gen. Robert W. Grow, commanding general of the RTC; Col. John F. Davis, Deputy Post Commander, Col. Maurice W. Daniel, assistant Commandant of the Armored School, and Capt. Louis Gelling, aide to General Leonard, attended the formal acceptance of the Mammoth Cave National Park into the Department of Interior by Secretary of Interior Krug. Among the celebrities at the ceremonies were Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky.

The latest of the visiting foreign officers are Lt. Col. S. Netrayan and Lt. Col. B. Phraband of the Siamese Army. They are here to observe the activities of the Armored School.

Col. Stuart C. MacDonald, who was here for the Armored School phase of the orientation of former POW's, was presented the Legion of Merit at the closing exercises of POW Class #10. The award was presented by Col. Maurice W. Daniel, assistant commandant of the school.

General Jonathan Wainwright's plane stopped here to refuel enroute to Frankfurt, Ky. and Hartford, Conn. During his short stop here two Ft. Knox sergeants, Charles E. Basham and John D. Brown, spoke to the general for the first time since the fall of Bataan and their capture by the Japanese.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John W. Leonard, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Williams L. Wells and Capt. Louis Gelling, attended the formal dance given by the Louisville Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association in honor of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Donald B. Adams. General Adams is the national president of the Reserve Officers Association of the U. S. The dance was held at the Brown Hotel in Louisville.

GREENVILLE ARMY AIR BASE, S. C.

9 Oct. 1946

The Red Cross chapter here, last week, welcomed back to its activities the Army wives of the Greenville Army Air Base. Volunteering many hours of service, the group will serve at the chapter house working with Mrs. A. H. Watts, acting production chairman.

In cooperation with the Red Cross field director's office at the base and the Army Special Services Office, Mrs. W. C. Humphries and Miss Elizabeth Mahon finished making 20 pairs of drapes to be used by the 303rd Base Unit mess hall. Aiding in getting the work done, the group was headed by Mrs. Martha H. Rosenbaum, wife of Lt. Col. Bert Rosenbaum.

Other Army wives assisting were: Mrs. W. A. Squires, Mrs. L. C. Mourer, Mrs. Bernard P. Whitehouse, Mrs. K. P. Robinson, Mrs. P. C. Rawlings, and Mrs. M. C. Sponenbergh.

Newly elected officers of the Headquarters Third Air Force women's club of GAAB were announced last week by Mrs. Frank J. MacNees, club president.

They are: Mrs. Paul L. Williams, honorary president; Mrs. MacNees, president; Mrs. H. H. Cloud, Jr., first vice-president; Mrs. R. H. Scudder, second vice-president; Mrs. R. D. Dear Mom:
It's just like home here: we had Aunt Jemima Pancakes this morning.

One heaping' forkful of those mouth waterin' Aunt Jemima Pancakes—and he feels like he's back home, with mother poppin' 'em on the griddle. For no matter who fixes Aunt Jemima Pancakes, they turn out plumb wonderful! If you want to see morale hit a new high—and fast, give them energizing, nourishing Aunt Jemima Pancakes. They're easy to digest as toast—and even easier to fix—just add milk or water. For a double treat, serve both kinds. For pancakes and waffles, get the red box of Aunt Jemima Ready-Mix, for buckwheats, get the yellow box.

FORT LEWIS, WASH.
12 Oct. 1946

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Director of selective service, who is on a tour of the Pacific Coast, was entertained at a luncheon at the Fort Lewis Inn 25 Sept. Attending the luncheon were Mrs. Hershey, who is accompanying her husband; Maj. Gen. Paul W. Kendall, Commanding General of Fort Lewis; Capt. Patrick H. Winston, USNR, state of Washington director of selective service, and Mrs. Winston; Mrs. Nora Downey, Red Cross director at Madigan General Hospital; Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles M. Toynbee, Lt. Col. K. F. Yaser, Capt. D. C. Peterson, Lt. Ora Knowlton and W. D. Pfeiffer. The latter four officers and civilians are members of the state selective service headquarters staff.

Host at a dinner and smoker on 24 Sept. for fifty guests from nearby Olympia was Maj. Gen. Paul W. Kendall, Commanding General at Fort Lewis. Following the dinner the party visited regimental trophy rooms of the Second Infantry Division and attended the post boxing matches.

Among the prominent civilians present was J. T. Trullinger, mayor of Olympia. Military personnel attending were: Brig. Gen. Henry J. D. Meyers, Col. James H. Hagans, Col. James L. Lewis, Col. S. E. Stancisko, Col. W. B. Kern and Col. T. F. Bogart; Lt. Col. D. P. Christensen, W. W. Morriss, J. H. Chiles, R. G. Turner, F. I. Agule, D. W. Fielder, I. G. Walz, J. H. Michael, A. C. Sine, E. C. Fitzpatrick, A. M. Dunn, C. P. Hannum, D. C. Hester, H. H. Schultz, B. B. King, J. N. Beck, W. E. Jennings, F. P. De Lemos and W. T. Chaffin; Majors J. H. Cook, E. Wolfe, A. A. Walton and H. J. Haynes.

A gala formal opening of the Ninth Infantry Regiment Officers' Club was held 22 Sept. The festivities were begun with a ceremonial presentation of a flag, escorted by a color guard. Punch was served from the famed sterling silver Liscum bowl, and dancing highlighted the evening.

Chairman for the 26 Sept. meeting of the Engineer Training Center ladies' luncheon club was Mrs. Mack W. Ledbetter. Assisting as hostesses were Mrs. Thomas F. J. McDuffie and Mrs. A. L. Olshansky.

FORT HANCOCK, N. J.
1 Oct. 1946

A sea-going soldier—the FS-89—was retired from military service last week with full honors after a six-year career of ferrying troops between Fort Hancock on Sandy Hook, N. J., and New York City. And, in grateful appreciation, the Army post turned out to bid farewell to the "Chauncey"—as it was more affectionately called—with a send-off that did Fort Hancock proud.

Col. Charles D. Y. Ostrom, Commanding Officer of Harbor Defenses of New York, and Post Commander, presented a letter of commendation to the skipper and crew of the gallant little ship, and Lt. Col. Lyman L. Parks, HDNY Executive Officer, and Maj. Roy E. Anderson, Post Executive Officer, also joined in bidding farewell.

A band was on hand at the pier to provide the musical accompaniment, but even the rousing military airs could do little to dispel the illusion that Fort Hancock was losing a friend. For after six years of service without suffering a single serious mishap, the trim little Chauncey had won a place in the hearts of both officers and GIs alike.

FT. BLISS, TEX.
10 Oct. 1946

Maj. Gen. John L. Homer, Commanding General of the Antiaircraft and Guided Missile Center, announced 24 Sept. the assignment of Col. Cyrus H. Searcy in the dual capacity of Chief of Staff of the Center and Deputy Commander of the post of Fort Bliss. Prior to coming to Fort Bliss Col. Searcy was director of personnel of the 8th Service Command at Dallas.

During the war Mrs. Searcy served with the American Red Cross in the Mediterranean Theater and was decorated with the Italian War Cross by Humberts, then Italian Crown Prince.

Col. and Mrs. Searcy will reside on the main post at Fort Bliss.

Transferred to Keesler from Randolph Field, Tex., on 23 Sept. was Lt. Col. James J. Shown of Houston, Tex.

Col. Shown is to assume command of the Technical Training Command military police school at this station.

WRIGHT FIELD, OHIO
10 Oct. 1946

The American Society of Photogrammetry held its two-day Semi-Annual Meeting at Wright Field this year on the 26th and 27th of September. This meeting, always an important one in the realm of charting and mapping, was attended by about 200 members. Many distinguished persons in the photogrammetry field attended, among them General R. W. Hutchison, Commanding Officer, 311th Reconnaissance Wing, MacDill Field, Fla.; Brig. Gens. M. Hotine and R. L. Brown of the British Army; Wing Commander Harold Pearce of the Canadian mapping and charting activities; Col. Karl Prolifka, Air University, Maxwell Field, Ala.; Col. B. R. Wirak, G-2 General Staff, and many others.

The meeting was opened by Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining who discussed briefly the radar system known as "Shoran" and spoke of its value in the European Theatre of Operations which it reached six months prior to the German capitulation.

The members were taken on a full two-day tour of the mapping, charting and photographic activities of the Air Materiel Command. Papers were read by Col. George W. Hansen, Deputy Chief, Photographic Laboratory; Mr. H. G. Sennert, Radiation Laboratory, AMC; Lt. Col. Carl I. Aslakson, MacDill Field; Lt. Col. Gilbert I. Lorenz, Fort Belvoir, Va.; Mr. Gunnar Lefson, Hydrographic Office, U. S. Navy, and others.

The meeting closed with a farewell summing up by Maj. Gen. Laurence C. Craigie, Chief of the Engineering Division.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Clifford C. Nutt have been guests at the home of Mrs. F. M. Zeigler, Osborne, Ohio, since 18 Sept. General Nutt, formerly stationed at Wright Field, is now in command of the Atlantic Overseas District, Newark, N. J.

Every day more young people from Wright Field are leaving for their respective colleges and universities. This fall Julia Kenney, daughter of General George C. Kenney, will be a senior at the University of North Carolina. William Weikert, son of Brig. Gen. John M. Weikert, will enter Ohio State as a freshman. Jane Rives, daughter of Brig. Gen. Tom C. Rives, will return to Ohio State as a sophomore. Gail Craigie, daughter of Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, will be returning for her second year at Connecticut College for Women. Jean Gross, daughter of Brig. Gen. M. E. Gross, will attend George Washington University.

FT. BRAGG, N. C.
10 Oct. 1946

Col. Francis W. Farrell, Chief of Staff of the 82d Airborne Division, has been transferred to Ft. Monroe, Va., to take up a new assignment. His vacated office will be filled by Col. James W. Coutts, the former assistant commander of the Fort Benning Parachute School, and also the past commander of the 513th Parachute Infantry Regiment. Ironically enough, the last time these two men met was at West Point some thirteen years ago when Colonel Farrell was an instructor of one of plebe Coutts' classes.

Colonel Coutts, the new Chief of Staff, is an old paratrooper, having qualified with the original 501st Parachute Battalion. He received his commission from West Point in 1932, and in the years hence has figured actively in the history of the Airborne.

As commander of the 513th Parachute Infantry Regiment, he took that outfit overseas and led it through the fierce fighting of the Bulge, Central Europe, and the Jump on the Rhine. In the fight for Muenster, Germany, Colonel Coutts was wounded and evacuated to the States.

After months of hospitalization he recovered and once again became the assistant commandant of the Fort Benning School. He remained there until he was assigned as Chief of Staff of the 82nd Airborne Division.

CAMP HOOD, TEX.
12 Oct. 1946

The Officers' Wives' Club at Belton, Tex., held their regular meeting 13 Sept. at the Elk's Club. The regular meeting was followed by card games. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lorraine Ingram and Mrs. Mildred James, hostesses of the day. Others attending were: Mrs. J. C. Harper, Mrs. Warren Felix, Mrs. Joseph L. Spencer, Mrs. J. D. Lindsay, Mrs. Messner, Mrs. Beyer, Mrs. Dee C. Buchanan, Mrs. Wayne Paine, Mrs. Lester, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. L. Shurtlett, Mrs. Harry McArdle, Mrs. Paul B. Rupp, Mrs. Wildon K. Cogwell, Mrs. Raymond B. Graves, and Mrs. Noelle Marida.

A private informal bridge party was held at the Officers' Club 12 Sept. First prize was taken by Col. and Mrs. Gordon K. Smith, and Col. and Mrs. Correll were close behind to capture second honors. Other participants were: Maj. and Mrs. Jelsma, Maj. Greer, Capt. and Mrs. W. E. Ross, and Lt. Emmons.

In an effort to acquaint the wives of newly arrived staff officers, a dancing party was held for them at the Officers' Club 14 Sept. Those present were: Lt. Col. and Mrs. E. M. Connell, Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. B. Graves, Lt. Col. and Mrs. U. M. Barnes, Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. T. Shurtlett, Lt. Col. and Mrs. E. B. Wallace and Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. K. Smith.

1st Lt. Paul D. Harris, of the 696th Ordnance Co., announced that he and Mrs. Harris of Philadelphia are the parents of a new six-pound boy. Mrs. Harris is expected to arrive here as soon as her health will allow traveling.

The Consolidated Officers' Club, for colored officers, a newcomer here at Camp Hood, held their first fall dance 21 Sept. at their newly-decorated club. This dance was informal, but Lt. Albert C. Williams, director of the organization, announced that formal dances will be in order with cooler weather approaching. Those attending the dance were: Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Woods, 1st Lt. and Mrs. Maxwell Walters, 1st Lt. and Mrs. John Horton, 1st Lt. Paul D. Harris, Chief Warrant Officer and Mrs. Gentry Heslep, WOJG and Mrs. Phillip Murray, WOJG and Mrs. Fletcher Phillips, WOJG and Mrs. George Winston.

Maj. Joseph W. Morrison has replaced Capt. Thomas J. Haufen at the Second Armored Public Relations Office. The Captain has been ordered to report to San Francisco for overseas shipment.

The Second Armored Division will soon join the ranks of combat divisions having their own associations. Preparatory planning is now under way. General Devine, Division Commander, has appointed a five-officer committee who have served with the Division since before its departure for North Africa four years ago. The committee, headed by Col. Carl I. Hutton, Deputy Post Commander, includes these officers: Lt. Col. Lewis W. Correll, Division G-4, and former commander of 17th Engineers; Maj. Louis M. Nawrocky, commanding officer of the 6th Tank Battalion; Capt. George M. Warren, and 1st Lt. William W. Barnett.

FORT MASON, CALIF.
14 Oct. 1946

Wives of officers stationed at San Francisco Port of Embarkation have formed a Ladies Luncheon Club which will meet monthly at the Fort Mason Officers Club. First program will be presented 15 Oct. with luncheon, bridge and a business meeting scheduled.

In the first activity of this kind in the Port in the post-war period, the ladies chose Mrs. Robert Perkins, wife of the Port Inspector General, as chairman for the first three months.

Mrs. Calvin DeWitt, wife of the Deputy Port Commander, and Mrs. George Barnes, wife of the Port Transportation Officer, are hostesses for the initial party.

Mrs. Neal H. McKay, wife of the Commanding General of the Port, sponsored the meeting at which the organization was launched.

Obituaries

General Joseph W. Stilwell, commanding general of the Sixth Army, died 12 Oct. at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif. His age was 63.

Funeral services were private and General Stilwell's ashes were spread over the Pacific near the Stilwell home at Carmel, Calif., by crew members of his wartime personal plane.

Shortly before the General's death, he was visited in his hospital room by Secretary of War Patterson. Despite his weakened condition General Stilwell insisted upon sitting up in bed and greeting the Secretary. He was then quite ill and had lost 40 pounds.

In addition to his widow, General Stilwell is survived by two sons: Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, jr., Sixth Army liaison officer to the Canadian Army; Benjamin W. Stilwell, a student at Leland Stanford University; three daughters, Miss Allison Stilwell and Mrs. William E. Cox, both of San Francisco, and Mrs. Ernest F. Easterbrook of Fort Benning, Ga.; a brother, John Stilwell, of Ardenwood, N. Y.; a sister, Mrs. Stuart Wilder, of Newton, Conn.; an aunt, Mrs. George A. Farnham, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and five grandchildren.

Following are excerpts from statements of military leaders issued upon the death of General Stilwell:

Secretary of War Patterson—"In the death of General Stilwell every soldier in the Army has lost a faithful friend."

General Thomas T. Handy, Acting Chief of Staff—"General Stilwell will be well remembered for many things other than for the famous road which he built through the highest mountains in the world and which now bears his name."

General Jacob L. Devers, Commanding General, Army Ground Forces—"The entire world is poorer as it mourns Joseph Warren Stilwell."

General Carl Spaatz, Commanding General, Army Air Forces—"His death removes a veteran campaigner whom the Army can ill afford to lose."

General Stilwell was born at Palatka, Fla., 19 March 1883. Following his graduation from the United States Military Academy he was appointed a second lieutenant of Infantry, 15 June 1904. He saw service in the Philippine Islands following his commissioning and again in 1910. During World War I he participated in engagements at LaFere, Verdun, Toul, and in the Battle of St. Mihiel. In 1919 he became a Chinese language student, first at the University of California, then at Peking, China, for a three-year period. Ordered to China again in 1926, he served at Tientsin with the 15th Infantry and Chief of Staff, American Forces in China.

In 1935 General Stilwell was assigned as Military Attaché at Peking. He was assigned to command the III Army Corps, Presidio of Monterey, Calif., and in March, 1942, was assigned to command United States Army Forces in the China-Burma-India Theater, later being placed in command of the Fifth and Sixth Chinese Armies by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. He later served as the Generalissimo's Chief of Staff, Deputy Supreme Allied Commander of the Southeast Asia Command, and as Commander of Allied Ground Forces in North Burma. Returning to the United States in 1944, he was made Chief, Army Ground Forces, in 1945. In June, 1945, he assumed command of the Tenth Army on Okinawa. In December, 1945, he was assigned as Commanding General, Western Defense Command, and in 1946 took command of the Sixth Army.

General Stilwell held the Distinguished Service Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Distinguished Service Cross, and the Legion of Merit.

Admiral Russell R. Waesche, USCG, recently retired after ten years as Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, died 17 Oct. at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md.

Admiral Waesche was graduated from the U. S. Coast Guard Academy in 1906, and gave 40 years of service before being relieved as Commandant by Admiral James F. Farley soon after the end of World War II.

He was first advanced to Rear Admiral and appointed Commandant on 15 June 1936, and reappointed in 1940. He was promoted to Vice Admiral in March 1942, and reappointed again as Commandant in 1944. His appointment as the Coast Guard's first four-star Admiral was made the following year.

Through his long span of service, Admiral Waesche contributed immeasurably to the growth of the Coast Guard. In the war years particularly, he was instrumental in effecting the three-fold expansion of both personnel and ships which marked the Coast Guard's participation on each fighting front.

Admiral Waesche is survived by his widow, Mrs. Agnes R. Waesche, whose home is 7005 Rolling Road, Chevy Chase, Md., and three sons, all of whom are in service; Comdr. Russell R. Waesche, Jr., USCG; Lt. Col. Harry Lee Waesche, AAF; and Ensign James H. Waesche, USCG.

Christmas Mailing

The Army and Navy this week announced deadlines for Christmas mailing to personnel overseas.

The Navy announced deadlines for sending Christmas greeting cards via air mail to occupation and maintenance forces in the Pacific. They should be mailed in sufficient time to reach the Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, not later than dates indicated:

1 Dec.—China-Japan-Philippine area.
5 Dec.—Okinawa, Manus, Guam, Saipan, Marcus, Canton Island area.
10 Dec.—Johnston Island, Wake, Kwajalein, Majuro, Eniwetok area.
15 Dec.—Hawaii-Midway area.

The deadline for mailing Christmas parcels to Navy and Marine Corps personnel in the extreme forward areas was 15 Oct.

For the Army, the special gift mailing period during which packages may be sent without request slips to overseas soldiers, will continue until 15 Nov.

Those packages going to distant points such as China, India, the Middle East, and the islands of the Pacific should be mailed as early as possible, preferably not later than 1 Nov.

Ride To Texas

Col. H. H. Richards and his daughter, Miss Ladonia Richards, of Riverton, Va., are en route to Texas on horseback. Colonel Richards, a prisoner of the Japanese for three years, was recently released from an Army hospital.

Gen. Wilson to Retire

Maj. Gen. Walter K. Wilson, Executive Director of Army Emergency Relief and Liaison Officer for the Secretary of War with the American Red Cross, is on terminal leave and will be retired after more than 48 years of active duty 30 Nov.

At the request of Secretary Patterson, General Wilson will continue to exercise his present duties in a civilian capacity. General Wilson was first retired 30 June 1944 but was recalled to active duty immediately. His record of unbroken service is one of the longest in the Army's history.

Statutory Age Limit

Army officers approaching the statutory age limit for retirement will be exempt from overseas assignment if the total period of remaining service prior to retirement, including all accrued leave, is less than the normal tour of duty in the theater concerned.

This policy is published in War Department Circular 305.

present were Capt. George Ford and Mr. Albert L. Blugham, here on an inspection tour of the Ft. Benning's Food Service Program; Maj. and Mrs. Abraham Pfeffer, Capt. and Mrs. Russell Young, Capt. and Mrs. Walter Tjernerberg and Lt. and Mrs. Walter Cope.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. John R. Grollemond were hosts Wednesday night at the Officers' Club buffet supper, entertaining a group of station complement officers.

The supper table, set up on the back porch of the club was decorated in a yellow motif of zinnias and marigolds with yellow candles placed at intervals.

Guests present were Col. and Mrs. Norman Holt, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fred L. Ackerson, Lt. Col. and Mrs. John J. Deane, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lawton D. Jordan, Lt. Col. and Mrs. William C. Coulbourn, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ralph A. Tolve, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Henry C. Britt, Lt. Col. Harry H. Pretty, Maj. and Mrs. Raymond A. Parkins, Maj. and Mrs. Charles A. Briggs, Capt. and Mrs. Marshall E. Bullock, Capt. and Mrs. Jesse B. Halprin, Capt. and Mrs. George Kenley, Capt. Millard L. Mather, Lt. and Mrs. William L. Rucker, Capt. Hannah J. Ashby and Mrs. Mayme Cohn.

Zinnias and marigolds in shades of yellow-orange set off by glossy green magnolia leaves formed the table motif at the bridge luncheon party given by ladies of The Airborne School Tuesday.

Hostesses who were appointed to organize the next luncheon are Mrs. Paul Smith, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Frederick G. Bull and Mrs. John Marr.

Hostesses for this occasion were Mrs. Laurence C. Corley, Mrs. George R. Stephens III, Mrs. Walter Delong and Mrs. John Cudmore.

Ladies present, in addition to the above named, were the Mesdames George M. Jones, George V. Millett, Robert S. Palmer, Patrick S. Cassidy, Richard G. Collins, John L. Erickson, Joseph S. Lawrie, Patrick K. Mulcahy, John W. Paddock, Wright J. Sherrard, Paul F. Smith, Alton R. Taylor, Morris S. Anderson, Harris T. Mitchell, Clarence F. Murray, Clyde R. Russell, T. K. Smith, and her mother, Mrs. LaBlue, Mrs. John T. Buffkin, Robert L. Millam, John N. Davis, James C. Griffin, John W. Marr, Earle C. Reed, Karl W. Lillge, Thomas P. Mulcahy, John L. Booge, Robert S. Brewer, Louis A. Poleo, Lemie, James J. Hatch, Warren R. Williams, Clarence R. Beas, Frederick G. Bull, John T. Joseph, Robert E. Jones, Barney Q. Hopkins, James L. Walker, Dan C. Kingman, Robert T. Kendrick, William A. Roope, Rawleigh W. Taylor, and John T. Little.

INFANTRY SCHOOL 14 Oct. 1946

An official dinner party was given at the Officers' Club 9 Oct., in honor of General Ho Ying-chin, Chief of the Chinese Military Mission to the United States, and his party of four who visited Ft. Benning on Wednesday and Thursday. Members of the General's party were: Lt. Col. K. H. Chen, Lt. Col. Y. N. Yang, Maj. C. H. Wang, and Maj. H. S. Cheng.

General officers who attended the dinner were: Maj. Gen. John W. ("Iron Mike") O'Daniel, Commandant of The Infantry School; Brig. Gen. William B. Miley, Commandant of The Airborne School; Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Caffey, Jr., Commanding General of the 25th Combat Team; Brig. Gen. Whitfield P. Shepard, Assistant Commandant of The Infantry School; Col. E. Johnson; Col. Gilbert T. Collar; Col. Charles E. Johnson; Lt. Col. T. R. Aaron; Lt. Col. O. O. Wilson. Also present were: Captain Chin, USA, Special aide; and Lt. Col. Liu Man-tein, Senior Chinese Army Student at The Infantry School.

The Infantry School Tactical Section Ladies held their monthly meeting and luncheon, 10 Oct. at the Officers' Club, Fort Benning. The hostesses were Mrs. L. Cagwin and Mrs. R. L. Dalton.

Mesdames Charles Oglesby, Williams, John Williamson, K. L. Davis, E. Escherberg, D. Raymond, Paul Cooper, Jasper, E. B. Blair, Robert Dickerson, J. Creitzberg Jr., D. E. Rivette, Davis, George R. Harrison, J. W. R. Seltz, F. C. Spreyer, D. Murray Cheston, R. E. Wheelstone, James D. Loewus, R. N. McKelvin, R. C. Shaw, Douglas Suggs, Albert O. Connor, Bell, Polk, D. S. Gibbs, Willis, Matt Bristol.

Mrs. W. O. Blandford was hostess at a small dinner party at the Officers' Club, 9 Oct. in celebration of Colonel Blandford's birthday. A silver bowl of yellow chrysanthemums flanked by yellow candles formed the centerpiece of the table which was set up on the back porch of the Club. Guests present in addition to the honoree were Col. and Mrs. C. U. Knaub, Col. and Mrs. Ben Harrell, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Ramsey, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ralph D. Burns, Lt. Col. and Mrs. H. C. Hicks, and Capt. and Mrs. S. W. Pratt.

THE AIRBORNE SCHOOL 11 Oct. 1946

Brig. Gen. William M. Miley, Airborne School Commandant, welcomed Chinese Forces Supreme Commander, General Ho Ying Chin, on a brief itinerary of Airborne installations, 10 Oct. Accompanying General Ho were Colonels Chuen, and Tseng, Lt. Col. Yang, and Chen, and Majors Wong, and Chen.

The Airborne School, Fort Benning, is now offering a three-week course in Air-Transportability. This course in air movement is in fulfillment of two real and evident needs: First, that all ground troops of the future must be familiar with, and capable of, air movement in transport aircraft. Second, that the increase in improved aircraft shows that air-transportation will no longer be considered an alternate method, but must be considered a normal means of movement.

The first group of students completed the program of instructions on 25 Sept., leaving nine more classes to receive similar training during the school year of 1946-1947. Students attending this course are being allotted from Army Ground Forces units stationed in the United States.

1st Lt. Robert D. Bentley, Acting Secretary of the 17th Airborne Division Association, revealed that the search is being continued for a permanent civilian secretary out of the 20,000 ex-members of the old "Golden Talon" combat division.

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, T. H. 7 Oct. 1946

The Schofield Barracks Thrift Shop located near the main Post Exchange reopened Monday under the leadership of Mrs. Virginia B. Johnson, wife of Col. Hugh Johnson, at the same location as in 1942 when war and returning families forced the shop to close, the new Thrift Shop is gaily decorated both inside and out in pastel shades of green.

Mrs. Johnson, the present director, was also in charge of operations at the time the shop closed.

Lt. Gen. John E. Hull, AFMIDPAC Commander, reviewed Schofield Barracks troops in a retreat parade ceremony at Post Headquarters Parade Ground Monday. Immediately after the ceremonies, Lt. Gen. Hull and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Wayne C. Smith were "At Home" in General Smith's quarters until 1800.

A formal buffet dinner dance was held at the Schofield Barracks Officers' Club last Saturday. The Pearl Harbor Debonnaires, an outstanding Navy band, provided the music. The Schofield Federation of Church Women held a regular meeting last Thursday. In an interim election Mrs. Mark Reid was selected president to fill out the term of Mrs. Robert Boston. Mrs. James S. Griffes was named vice president to fill out the term of Mrs. Mark Reid. It was announced that a committee of twenty will help fill Christmas seal envelopes for the Tuberculosis Association in Honolulu on the mornings of 11 and 12 Oct.

Of unusual interest the other afternoon, was a visit to the younger set of Schofield Barracks. Children of all ages from one month to five years were enjoying a quiet afternoon siesta at the Schofield's Child Care Center located adjacent to the Parade Ground in Post Headquarters. Playschool is under the supervision of Schofield's Director of Training, Maj. W. O. Foster, Cavalry. Assistants are Mrs. Margaret Vivas, playschool director; Mrs. Anne Davidson, registered nurse; and Mrs. Marjorie McBride.

Maj. Kennard Vandergrift, AGD, and Mrs. Vandergrift were hosts at the season's unusual social event—a Japanese "Sukiyaki" party. Two long tables had been placed in the dining room with the traditional Japanese cushions on the floor. At each table were two Japanese burners and a Japanese chef to prepare the "Sukiyaki." Delicious steaks were grilled on the patio grill. Floral arrangements within the house were tropical with a motif of red torch ginger. Guests present included: Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Wayne C. Smith, Col. and Mrs. Clarence Bragg, Col. and Mrs. Schaffer, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Terence J. Smith, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Joseph Withington, Lt. Col. Byron Meurlott, Maj. Waldo Bess and Mrs. Bess, Maj. and Mrs. Charles Fair, Maj. and Mrs. Carl Brose, Lt. and Mrs. Frank Shenk, Mrs. Carolyn Gram, Mrs. Bernice Hickman, and Lt. John Maddox.

HICKAM FIELD, T. H. 24 Sept. 1946

A buffet dinner and cocktail party was held this week in honor of Maj. Clement Slattery, security officer and Capt. Rudolph F. Pipinich, chief civilian guards, Hawaiian Air Materiel Area, on their forthcoming return to the mainland. The farewell party was given the officers by the civilian personnel and friends of the HAMA provost marshal's office.

Major Slattery was prosecutor Provost Court Honolulu under Martial Law from July, 1942 until April, 1944, at which time he was assigned as Provost Marshal, HAMA until the merger in May, 1946, when he became security officer of HAMA. He will return to Hartford, Conn., for reassignment.

Captain Pipinich departed the States for Honolulu in December, 1943, and served as Company Officer of the 1245th NP Co (Avn); Asst. Provost Marshal, Hickam Field; Commanding Officer 1246th MP Co (Avn); Asst. Provost Marshal and Provost Marshal, Base and in March, 1946, assumed the assignment as Asst. Provost Marshal, HAMA. During the merger in May, 1946, he was also assigned as chief, civilian guards, HAMA.

Those present at the farewell party were: Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fred H. Marshall, new HAMA security officer replacing Major Slattery; Lt. Col. and Mrs. Rush F. Linch, 7th AAF provost marshal; Maj. Randolph D. Longino, ATC Provost Marshal; Capt. and Mrs. Jack Rafshoon, CO 1384th MP Battalion and asst. base Provost Marshal; Capt. and Mrs. Leonard Hogeland, HAMA Provost Marshal and Capt. and Mrs. Albert Fallon, CMP and CO of Headquarters and Headquarters Squadrons.

Investigators and office staff included: Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Alger, Frances West, Vera Johnson, Ada Ringo, Beatrice Aronson, Virginia Relf, Willard Abbot, Louis Pendagratt, B. T. Wilson, Sr., Abel Corea and Urban S. Reininger.

FORT SAM HOUSTON, TEX. 11 Oct. 1946

'Twas welcome home from the E.T.O. for Lt. Col. Joseph S. Piram, dining last Saturday in the Fort Sam Houston Officers' Club.

On Saturday, too, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Milton Thompson entertained the orthopedic staff of Brooke General Hospital and a few other friends. Their guests included Col. and Mrs. Paul Streit, Col. and Mrs. Earl L. Herring, Dr. and Mrs. Walter G. Stuck of San Antonio, Col. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Brewer, Col. and Mrs. Knox Dunlap, Lt. Col. John M. Willis, Jr., Capt. and Mrs. Wayne Zimmerman, Lt. and Mrs. Philip D. Wilson, Jr., and Lt. and Mrs. Henry Allgood.

Mrs. R. P. Davidson invited for dinner Brig. Gen. Harry A. Johnson, Col. and Mrs. Olin C. Newell, Col. and Mrs. Morrow, Col. Gaines, Col. and Mrs. Thomas Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Bonnet and Mrs. Marshall Williams.

Col. and Mrs. John L. Autrey of 4th Army Headquarters entertained at the dinner dance in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Todd Parsons of Dallas. The Autreys, who have been living at the Bushnell Apartments in San Antonio, are this week taking quarters on Graham Road at Fort Sam Houston.

Col. and Mrs. Lester Veigel, accompanied by Mrs. A. P. Clark and her daughter, Anne Hill, have departed for a vacation in Monterey, Mexico.

On Wednesday evening Col. and Mrs. Stewart Hervey entertained in the 4th Army Club as a farewell to Mrs. Everett E. Brown, who is leaving Monday to join General Brown in Japan. Enjoying the evening were Col. and Mrs. Ray Harris, Col. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Besse, Col. and Mrs. Ross Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loughridge, Col. and Mrs. Russell Baker, Mrs. R. A. Hill, Mrs. Cuyler Clark, Capt. B. B. Kendrick, and Mr. George Matten.

Ninety-five women were present today at the reorganization meeting of the Retired Officers' Wives, held in the Fort Sam Houston Officers' Club. Mrs. J. R. Pourie, president, before the club interrupted its meetings in December of 1942, presided. She was re-elected president; Mrs. R. E. Cummins, vice-president, and Mrs. P. J. Hennessey, secretary. The group, organized six or seven years ago by Mrs. Halstead Dorey, draws its membership from among the wives of retired officers and the widows of regular Army officers living in San Antonio. Its purpose is purely social—to get together once a month for luncheon.

5TH ARMY HQ., CHICAGO 11 Oct. 1946

Brig. Gen. Paul B. Kelly, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, represented Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Commanding General, Fifth Army, at the reception for General Albert Orsborn, International leader of the Salvation Army, Sunday at the Civic Opera House, Chicago.

Three Chicagoans were awarded the Legion of Merit by Maj. Gen. Louis A. Craig, deputy commander, Fifth Army, in a special ceremony at Fifth Army Headquarters, Civic Opera Building. They included William A. Brewer, former Army Colonel; Walter Furbushaw, former Colonel; and Richard S. Tennant, former Major.

For outstanding service as Chief of the China Supply Branch in the China-Burma-India Theater, Lewis D. Barton, Chicago, former Army Lieutenant Colonel, was awarded the Legion of Merit last week by General Craig.

CAMP LEE, VA. 14 Oct. 1946

Camp Lee's Nowak Field was host to Maj. Gen. Thomas B. Larkin, the Quartermaster General, for the gridsters second home game of the season with Fort Benning.

Gen. Larkin and his wife were guests of Brig. Gen. Roy C. L. Graham.

Also included in Gen. Graham's party at the football diff. present with their wives were Col. A. N. Stubblebine, Jr., Commandant of the Quartermaster School; Col. and Mrs. Richard T. Bennison, Commanding Officer of the Quartermaster Training Center; Col. Norman P. Williams, President of the Quartermaster Board; Lt. Col. Verne R. Silbaugh, Director of Morale; Lt. Col. Felix M. icer; Mrs. Paul V. Kellogg, wife of the former QMTC Commanding Officer; Mrs. Lawrence L. Cobb, wife of the former Quartermaster School Commandant, and Mrs. Sam Francis, wife of the Traveller's head football coach.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Larkin spent the night at the Officers' Recreational Center and left Camp Lee the following day.

Saturday night, 12 Oct., marked the opening of the fall season at Camp Lee's Officers' Recreational Center.

Present as guests of Post Commander Brig. Gen. Roy C. L. Graham and his wife were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas B. Larkin and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Felix M. Hardison.

Also included in the General's party, escorting their wives, were Col. Charles C. Brown, District Executive of the Virginia Military District and field representative for the Second Army Commanding General in Virginia, and Col. Harry F. Myers, Senior Instructor in the Virginia National Guard.

An elaborate lobster dinner, followed by a gala formal dance in the spacious Recreational Center, completed the evening's activities.

ALASKAN SERVICE BASE 5 Oct. 1946

Col. Leslie G. Mulzer, commanding officer of the recently established Alaskan Service Base, with headquarters at Fort Richardson, held the first staff meeting of the new command yesterday afternoon to acquaint the chiefs of his staff sections with the mission of the command and to discuss with them informally methods of operation and coordination among the several sections and with higher headquarters in the Alaskan Department.

Before taking up details of the organization, which is still in the formative stage, having come into existence on 1 Oct., Col. Mulzer told his staff that Lt. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, Director of Service, Supply, and Procurement in the War Department, said during his inspection tour of military supply and transportation facilities in Alaska last week that the new set-up in the Alaskan Department was a step in the right direction. This statement on the part of Gen. Lutes was prompted by his observation of the already smoothly working plans to combine facilities and effort among Air and Ground Forces in the department.

Command of the post of Fort Richardson and the Alaska Air Depot, both of which were commanded by Col. Mulzer before the reorganization of 1 Oct., has been delegated to Lt. Col. Leonard M. Rohrbaugh and Maj. Edwin A. McKoy, respectively. Maj. McKoy is also Base Air Officer and commanding officer of the 93rd Air Depot Group.

In the group were Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Wade H. Haislip and their neighbors at Fort Myer, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Hall, also Rear Adm. and Mrs. Thomas Inglis, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. G. C. McDonald, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. S. J. Chamberlin, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. M. C. Crow, Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Leroy Lutes, Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad, with Mrs. Norstad. Also present were Rear Adm. and Mrs. John L. McCrea, Commo. and Mrs. Charles Rend, Col. and Mrs. Ward Ryan.

Brig. Gen. Clayton S. Adams, USA-Ret., and Mrs. Adams, who have been in the west since their marriage at Las Vegas, last July a year ago, have returned to Washington, and were the guests for whom Mrs. Martin Vogel entertained at a supper party Monday evening. Among the hundred or so guests were Maj. Gen. James Ullo, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. H. Conger Pratt, Comdr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Witt and Col. George Ramey.

Col. Russell M. Peters has been assigned to duty in Washington with the Strategic Air Command, and he and Mrs. Peters have taken quarters temporarily at the Burlington Hotel. Their daughter, Mary, is remaining at their former home, Larchmont, N. Y., until they secure a residence in the capital.

Comdr. Richard C. Carey, SC, USN, and Mrs. Carey announce the arrival of Michael Kenneth Carey, 26 Sept., at Tucson, Arizona. Mrs. Carey is the former Darrell Hall, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Kenneth Hall, and is at present with her parents, and sister, Miss Frances Hall in Tucson, awaiting the return of Commander Carey who is with the USS Helena on sea duty.

The Russian Mystery

("Behind the Iron Curtain" By George Moorad, Published by Fireside Press, Inc., 604 South Washington Square, Philadelphia. $3.00 per copy)

"BEHIND the Iron Curtain," an expression coined by Winston Churchill, is an appropriate title for a volume examining some of the mystery of Russia's activities in the cities that Churchill named—Warsaw, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest, and Sofia.

In these cities, Russia's activities are cloaked in mystery by taut censorship, by secret police, by terror, by threats of arrest, torture or deportation for slave labor, according to Mr. Moorad. He has recorded his observations after visiting Moscow in 1944-45 on a combined writing and broadcasting assignment, following years as a foreign correspondent.

George Moorad was caught in the Shanghai incident, and remained in the Far East as a correspondent. A few weeks after Pearl Harbor, he was en route to Australia. He wrote the story of the first landing on Guadalcanal and the Battle of the Bismarck Sea for the Saturday Evening Post. In the Summer of 1943, he was assigned to London, where he began his globe-girdling wanderings with a CBS microphone which made him one of radio's most travelled correspondents.

At the risk of barring his own return to either Russia or any of her satellite states, Mr. Moorad writes of the secrecy which prevents dissemination of information there. Marshal Stalin, he says, is the only man who dares to talk frankly with foreigners, and proves it with an anecdote from the Teheran meeting.

Military chiefs of the United States and England had tried for hours to get what were considered the simplest facts from their Russian opposites. Suddenly Stalin proceeded to outline the whole front in meticulous detail. Moorad describes the scene:

"His generals sat in open-mouthed amazement at their commander speaking so openly to foreigners. As a result of this episode the lieutenant general in charge of the British mission to Moscow was withdrawn and his place taken by a colonel. 'I learned more in five minutes from Stalin,' the general is quoted as saying, 'than I learned in Moscow in a year.'"

At Yalta, "the Russians below Molotov kept strictly to themselves, outside the formal talks," Moorad continues.

This book provides an interesting backstage view of Soviet Russia, and its power, and will assure all readers a new understanding and appreciation of the news from "Behind the Iron Curtain."

Financial Digest

Leading stocks made a sharp rise this week following the decontrol of meat and at the same time prices for livestock boomed all over the country. In leading livestock markets cattle prices reached an all-time peak. Industrial shares on the New York Stock Exchange by mid-week showed the greatest single day advance since 5 Sept., 1939, the first trading day after the commencement of the war in Europe.

Setting a new high for the post-war period, General Motors Corporation produced 27,540 automobiles last week.

The Securities Exchange Corporation reports the 30 June total of net working capital of American corporations, exclusive of banks and insurance companies, at $54 billion, a new record. An increase of $1.2 billion was shown in the second quarter over the first. A decrease in current liabilities accounts largely for the second quarter gain over the first quarter, rather than an increase in current assets.

Newly-mined domestic silver to the amount of 402,908 ounces was purchased last week by the Treasury Department, being the first purchases since authorization to buy the domestic metal at 90.5 cents an ounce.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System reports that banks debits as reported by banks in 334 leading centers for the month of September aggregated $83,288 million. During the past three months total debits for the same centers amounted to $257,392 million, or 51.1 per cent above the total reported for the corresponding period a year ago. At banks in New York City there was an increase of 8.1 per cent compared with the corresponding three-months period a year ago, and at the 333 other centers there was an increase of 20 per cent.

Cut Army Personnel

The War Department announced 17 Oct. additional measures which are being taken to place the Army, at the earliest possible time, on a volunteer basis, and at the same time to raise the efficiency of the service in spite of stringent limitations on its strength.

Directives have been issued providing for the discharge before 31 Dec. 1946 of sufficient personnel to bring the strength of the Army down to the reduced ceiling imposed by appropriated funds. Personnel thus discharged will be placed on terminal leave at such time prior to 31 Dec. 1946 as will enable them to complete their leave on or before that date.

As a means of effecting the reduction, commanders have been directed to screen carefully all personnel under their commands and to eliminate individuals who are unfitted to perform the duties assigned to them or who have demonstrated an inaptitude for military service.

You'll get special attention from Army and Navy Journal advertisers—they cater to Service personnel.

Merchant Marine

While the American merchant marine is critically short of high-speed passenger vessels for competitive operations, a score of passenger-cargo vessels now under construction or reconversion after war service will soon be added to the nation's merchant fleet.

Led by the SS America, which served as the USS West Point during World War II, these new and rebuilt ships are of varied type and capacity. The America, largest liner ever built in this country, is scheduled to make her maiden peacetime voyage as soon as the maritime strike is settled.

A survey by the Maritime Commission shows that the availability of more passenger vessels will help round out a post-war merchant marine that now has a large surplus of cargo carriers.

Following the America, an early newcomer in ocean trade will be the combination passenger-cargo ship Del Norte, delivery of which is expected 31 Oct. Her sister ships, Delsud and Delmar, will be completed this year, and each has accommodations for 150 passengers.

Scheduled for delivery in December and January are the Alcoa Cavalier, Alcoa Clipper, and Alcoa Corsair, each of which will carry 100 passengers. The Santa Rosa and Santa Paula, with capacity for 50 passengers each, are being reconverted from troopships, and completion is expected around the first of 1947.

Reconversion of the 574-foot Uruguay, formerly the California, is due 1 March. Completion of the rebuilding of the Brazil is expected the same day. Both of these liners are veterans of the pre-war Good Neighbor Fleet, and each will carry several hundred passengers.

Two Maritime Commission P2-design liners, the President Cleveland and President Wilson, are due for completion in April and July of 1947. In the meantime, the President Monroe, now being reconditioned, will be ready in a month or two.

Contracts for reconversion of three military-type troopships to cargo vessels have been awarded by the Maritime Commission. They are the former USS Goodhue (APA-107), USS Alpine (APA-92), and USS Barnstable (APA-93).

In addition, bids for reconversion have been asked on the following: USS Burleigh (APA-95), USS Westmoreland (APA-104), USS Hansford (APA-106), USS Griggs (APA-110), and USS Guilford (APA-112).

That Marvelous Army Mule

("Francis," By David Stern, Published by Farrar, Straus and Company, New York City)

WHETHER or not you believe in mules that talk, Francis is one. Francis not only talks, but has a personality all his own—cocksure, clever, and without too much respect for the Second Lieutenant who comes eventually to rely on him. In the first person, this Second Lieutenant relates a succession of incidents in which Francis' superior knowledge of the Army helps him out of a hole.

When the Shavetail-author tries to tell his C.O. of Francis' assistance in his sometimes meritorious achievements, he usually winds up in the neuropsychiatric ward. But Francis proves he is not crazy; he turned down OCS, is familiar with intelligence work of G-2, and generally proves himself quite adept in a series of stories in the Burma jungle. He can also use the telephone. The story that results from Francis' genius and the Shavetail's lack of genius is lighthearted and gay, and well worth a reading. And if you don't believe Francis can fly, this book has an unhappy ending.

Distribution of Surplus Funds

During the current period of Army reorganization, with many units being inactivated and others reorganized and formed, the transfer and administration of non-appropriated funds accumulated by organizations within units has amounted to no small task.

Funds accumulated by officers' and non-commissioned officers' clubs which go out of existence with the inactivation of a unit are transferred to the Army Club and Mess Fund. Here the funds are held in reserve to settle outstanding bills contracted by the formerly active unit organizations. The funds are also used in the form of grants or loans for the establishment of new clubs in other units.

The Army Club and Mess Fund is administered by a committee consisting of two officers from the Army Ground Forces, one from the Judge Advocate General's Department, one from Personnel and Administration, and one from the technical and administrative services. A Special Services Division officer is also on the committee, but in an advisory capacity only.

The Army Central Welfare Fund receives surplus funds from post exchanges and from the Army Motion Picture Service. Much has been accomplished through this fund in providing posts, camps and stations with swimming pools, tennis courts and other recreational facilities not provided for in appropriated funds.

The Central Welfare Fund recently made grants of $3,000 each to the six field armies in the United States, the major AAF commands, and the Military District of Washington, for the purpose of establishing headquarters welfare funds.

When the weekly Army publication Yank ceased publication last year profits were on hand in excess of $1,000,000. The publication had been established under the Information and Education Division through the use of appropriated funds, but the publication soon became self-supporting. Consequently, when publication ceased the profits were returned to the United States Treasury. Beginning 1 Jan., 1947, all Yank funds still being received, which consist of royalty payments from the sale of books published by the magazine, will be turned over to the Central Welfare fund.

AAF to Release 8,700 Officers

Due to limited budgetary allowances approximately 8,700 non-Regular Army officers must be discharged from the AAF to meet new maximum personnel allowances prescribed for each air command.

In making the announcement Army Air Forces Headquarters said that commanders are being requested to recommend officers at all stations to be discharged and not confine the action to those stations where a surplus of officers exists. It was suggested also that the number of recommendations for release by station commanders should exceed the total number to be discharged so that careful screening could be made.

Army Forced Retirements

than 10 and less than 20 years he would be discharged with one year's pay; and if more than 20 years' service he would be retired with pay at the rate of 2½ percent of his base pay plus longevity multiplied by the number of years of his service up to 30 years.

The new procedures now being promulgated differ from those previously prescribed in that they incorporate the right of appeal in addition to that of a right of hearing.

Three separate and distinct boards are to be appointed to take action under the new regulations—a screening board, boards of hearing, and a board of review. The screening board, composed of five general officers of the Regular Army and convened by the Secretary of War, is to provide for a review of the records of officers on the active list of the Regular Army whose cases may be referred to them.

Boards of hearing, also composed of not less than five general officers whose Regular Army rank is senior to that of the officer appearing before the board, are convened by order of the Secretary of War to afford a fair and impartial hearing to any officer selected by a screening board to show cause why he should be retained in the service.

The board of review, composed of not less than five general officers of the Regular Army and convened by the Secretary of War, will review each case in which the officer has been recommended for removal from the active list by a board of hearing.

The causes for removal set forth in the new regulation closely parallel those established for the removal of officers during their three-year probationary period. As in the case of these officers, it is emphasized that the new regulations are not intended to be disciplinary, and procedures prescribed are not to be used in lieu of court-martial action or action under the provisions of Article of War 104.

It is explained that officers required to show cause for retention have the right to submit their resignation or, if eligible, apply for voluntary retirement. They may avail themselves of these rights at any time prior to removal from the active list. The officer may also appear in person and be represented by counsel before any board of hearing or review, presenting evidence in his defense to the board.

In the case of officers recommended for removal by the board of final review, the action of the Secretary of War will be final and conclusive.

Pending revision of AR 605-230, the new regulations are set forth in Section I, War Department Circular 302, the complete text of which follows:

Pending revision of AR 605-230, 6 Sept. 1945, paragraph 14 of those regulations is rescinded and the following procedure is established for the removal from the active list of officers of the Regular Army whose retention on active duty is not in the best interests of the service:

1. GENERAL. The act of 29 July 1941 (Public Law 190—77th Cong.: 55 Stat 606) provides that during the period of the National Emergency the Secretary of War may remove from the active list for such causes as he may prescribe any officer of the Regular Army whose performance of duty or general efficiency compared with that of other officers of the same grade and length of service is such as to warrant such action or whose retention on the active list is not justified in the judgment of the Secretary of War for other good and sufficient reasons.

2. PURPOSE AND SCOPE. a. The purpose of these regulations is to vitalize the active list of the Regular Army by the elimination from it of those officers whose individual records over a period of time indicate that they have failed to achieve the average standards of performance of duty required by the duties of their permanent grade, or any other higher commissioned grade in which service is performed, and whose retention on the active list in consequence thereof, is not in the best interests of the service.

b. These regulations will not be used to accomplish revocation of commissions within the first 3 years after appointment in the Regular Army. The procedure for such action is established in section IV, WD Circular 281, 1946.

c. These regulations are not intended to be disciplinary, and procedures prescribed herein are not to be used in lieu of court-martial action or action under the provisions of Article of War 104. However, recurrent action by court-martial or Article of War

U. S. COAST GUARD

SPECIALIZED training leading to assignment as ice observation officers is available to officers of the Coast Guard Academy classes 1940 through 1945 inclusive and Reserve and temporary officers of equivalent dates of rank, who have been asked to submit applications.

The training program contemplates assignment of officers to duty at the Oceanographic Institution at Woods Hole, Mass., until February 1947, followed by participation in the next ice patrol and a return to Woods Hole for further study.

Alcoast 186, which announced this program, authorized replies by dispatch.

The Civil Engineering Division has loaned to museums and historical societies approximately 25 obsolete lighthouse lenses, ranging in size from first order to sixth order lenses.

The lenses have been loaned on an indefinite basis. It has been the desire of museums and historical societies generally to obtain lenses from a lighthouse located in the same geographic area.

Headquarters has directed that in the future, when obsolete lenses are recommended for replacement by more modern equipment, the recommendation should make provision for disposal of the obsolete lenses by loan to a museum or historical society or by Board of Survey.

The Coast Guard's 255-foot construction program was completed recently with the commissioning of the cutter Andros-coggin.

Instrumentation of the PBM-5 to be used in further rough water tests has been completed at the Glenn Martin Aircraft Corporation plant at Baltimore. In order to make the tests as complete as possible, landings are to be made in various locations in both Pacific and Atlantic waters, according to present plans.

this job, and has been suggested as possible chief of the new section should it materialize.

Although the new office probably would not be charged with directing research in the Navy, which is a responsibility charged by law to the Office of Naval Research, it would coordinate the development of weapons which might result from progressive scientific learning. This might include guided missiles, atomic power, and atomic weapons—which are now under DCNO (Special Weapons)—and, in addition, undersea warfare, and the Operational Development Force which tests new weapons.

Development in the field of undersea warfare is now coordinated under Rear Adm. Charles W. Styer, whose primary assignment is as Assistant Chief of Naval Operations. The Operational Development Force, which embraces subordinate activities responsible for anti-submarine warfare, is another command under CNO that carries on development work independently of other activities.

Divisions which now supervise development in each Bureau might also be included under the coordinating office now being planned, with the reasoning that development of new weapons and equipment of war is more properly a function of operations than administration.

Jet propulsion, until now dominated by the Bureau of Aeronautics, would thus be placed under a coordinating agency which would make knowledge gained in that field available to the Bureau of Ordnance or Bureau of Ships if such studies should appear profitable.

Leaders Honored

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations; General Carl Spaatz, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, and General Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of the Army Ground Forces, were awarded honorary degrees 12 Oct. by Williams College, Williams-town, Mass.

Admiral Nimitz, his plane grounded, received the degree in absentia.

Army Promotion Plans

ment legislation of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs; Representative L. F. Sikes (Dem.-Fla.) and Representative Thomas E. Martin (Rep.-Iowa), the latter two members of the House Committee on Military Affairs.

In the meantime it is understood that the section of the War Department General Staff charged with formulating personnel policies is giving more attention even than heretofore to the extension of the principle of promotion by selection. In line with this trend, it is learned that G-1 has procured from the Navy, which has had many years of experience in the operation of a selection system, a draft of the plan upon which it proposes to base its post-war promotions.

It is virtually settled that the War Department will seek to make all promotions from lieutenant colonel to colonel by selection. Now, it is understood, study is being given to extending selection down to the lieutenants' grade, but combining it with seniority promotion. One of the ideas is to promote a small percentage of first lieutenants to captain by selection, still making most promotions by seniority. From captain to major there would be a larger percentage by selection and the remainder by seniority, and increasing the percentages of those promoted by selection as the grades go upward. To prevent too rapid promotion it is proposed that officers advanced by selection would be required to serve a given number of years in their new grades before being eligible for selection to the next higher grades.

Army to Recruit Disabled

104 may be cause for taking action under paragraph 3.

d. The procedures specified herein differ from those previously prescribed in that they incorporate the fundamental concept of the right of appeal for each individual concerned in addition to that of a right to a hearing.

3. CAUSES. In general an officer will be considered for removal from the active list for any of the following or similar or related causes:

a. A continuous or progressive falling off of the officer's performance of duty over a period of time, and particularly during the period of the emergency, which has resulted in a low and unacceptable standard of efficiency in the officer, as reflected in his efficiency ratings.

b. A record of mediocre service, normally extending over a period of not less than 3 years and covered by efficiency ratings rendered by at least two different commanding officers during that time.

c. Demonstrated inability to exercise the necessary leadership or command required of an officer of his grade in the Army.

d. Lack of or inability to assimilate the technical proficiency required in an officer of the Army.

e. Inability to discharge properly assignments commensurate with his rank and experience.

f. Habitual intemperance or recurrent instances of other personal misconduct which affect detrimentally the performance of duty of the officer concerned and his usefulness to the service.

g. Repeated failure to meet personal financial obligations or other mismanagement of personal affairs, which affect detrimentally the performance of duty of the officer concerned and his usefulness to the service.

4. BOARDS OF OFFICERS. The boards of officers which will be appointed to take action under these regulations are separate and distinct boards and are as follows:

a. Screening board.
(1) The purpose of this board is to provide for a review of the records of officers on the active list of the Regular Army whose cases may be referred to them as indicated in paragraph 5 to determine which of such officers should be required to show cause why they should be retained on the active list.

(2) The screening board will be convened by the Secretary of War at such times as he deems appropriate and will be composed of five general officers of the Regular Army and one or more recorders without vote.

b. Boards of hearing.
(1) The purpose of these boards is to afford a fair and impartial hearing to any officer who is selected by a screening board to show cause why he should be retained in the military service by receiving evidence and making findings and recommendations as to the officer's fitness to be retained on the active list.

(2) These boards will be convened under the provisions of the act of 29 July 1941 (Public Law 190—77th Cong.; 35 Stat 606) at convenient locations as prescribed by the Secretary of War. The orders appointing the boards will clearly indicate that the board is convened "by the order of the Secretary of War" under the provisions of the act cited for the purpose of determining the suitability for retention on the active list of the Regular Army of all officers of the Regular Army appearing before it. Each board will be composed of not less than five general officers of the Regular Army, whose Regular Army rank is senior to that of the officer appearing before the board, and one or more recorders without vote. No one will be included as a member of the board, who has considered or recommended the officer concerned for removal from the active list or who may be called as a witness in the case.

c. Board of review.
(1) The purpose of this board is to review each case in which the officer has been recommended for removal from the active list by a board of hearing and to make recommendations as to whether or not the officer concerned should be retained on the active list.

(2) The board will be convened by the Secretary of War at such place and times as he deems necessary and will be composed of not less than five general officers of the Regular Army and one or more recorders without vote. No one will be included as a member of the board, who has considered or recommended the officer concerned for removal from the active list or who may be called as a witness in the case.

5. PROCEDURE FOR REMOVAL FROM THE ACTIVE LIST. a. The Commanding General, Army Ground Forces, in the case of officers commissioned or detailed in the ground arms, Commanding General, Army Air Forces, in the case of officers commissioned or detailed in or assigned to duty with the Air Corps, and the chiefs of administrative and technical services, in the case of officers commissioned or detailed in their respective arms and services, will review at once and on 1 July 1947, and thereafter semiannually on 1 January and 1 July of each year, the records of all Regular Army officers as stated above and initiate action under the provisions of this circular in appropriate cases. The Commanding General, Army Ground Forces, and chiefs of administrative and technical services will transmit the names of officers so considered to the War Department (Attn: WDGP-A) with a resume of the reasons for consideration of their removal and copies of applicable evidence from the 201 files of the officers concerned for referral to the screening board. The Commanding General, Army Air Forces, will refer the names of those officers so considered with a resume of the reasons for their removal from the active list and a copy of supporting evidence from their 201 files to The Adjutant General for referral to the screening board. In the case of officers detailed in or assigned to duty with another arm or service, who may be considered by the above commanders for removal from the active list, the recommendations for removal with a resume of the reasons for such removal and copy of supporting evidence from the 201 files of the officers concerned will, in the case of officers commissioned in the ground arms or air forces, be referred to the major force commander concerned and, in the case of officers commissioned in the services, to the appropriate chiefs of administrative or technical services for comment and/or recommendations. The commander or chiefs of services, after making appropriate comments on the case, will forward it to the War Department (Attn: WDGP-A) for appropriate action as outlined above. Further, when any commander considers that the manner of performance of duties by a Regular Army officer under his immediate command or observation is such to remove the officer from the active list, he will make such recommendations through channels to the appropriate major force commander or chief of service for consideration with a resume of the reasons for such removal and suitable supporting evidence to substantiate such reasons. If at any time a reclassification board recommends the removal of a Regular Army officer from the active list for reasons other than physical disability, and the convening authority of the board concurs, or when other action is recommended by the board, and the convening authority is of the opinion that removal from the active list is warranted, the records in the case will be forwarded to The Adjutant General for referral to the screening board. When in the case of any officers considered by the screening board the recommendation of the board is that the officer should be retained in the military service, the case will be returned with no further action to the initiating agency for information.

b. If upon completion of action on any case by the screening board it is recommended that the officer concerned be required to show cause why he should be retained on the active list, the complete files in the case together with the board's recommendation will be forwarded to The Adjutant General. The Adjutant General will notify the Commanding General, Army Air Forces, Army Ground Forces, chief, administrative or technical service, or the commander of the Army or overseas theater concerned that the officer under his jurisdiction has been selected to show cause for retention on active duty with the reasons for such selection. The commander concerned will then notify the officer concerned that he has been selected to show cause for retention including in such notification the reasons therefor and advise him of his rights as outlined in paragraph 7. A statement will be obtained from the officer that he understands his rights and that he desires either to—

(1) Appear personally and/or be represented by counsel before a board of hearing convened under the provisions of the act of 29 July 1941 with the same rights to appear personally and/or by counsel if his case goes to the board of review, with further rights to present any evidence in his defense to the boards, to be permitted full access to and be furnished copies of records considered by the boards pertinent to his case, and to be granted reasonable and necessary time to prepare his case for presentation to the board of hearing not less than 30 days, or

(2) Submit his resignation under the provisions of AR 605-275, or

(3) Apply for voluntary retirement under the provisions of AR 605-245, if eligible.

Upon receipt of the statement from the officer indicating his desires, the commander concerned will transmit the information to The Adjutant General. If the officer elects to appear before the board, this information will be transmitted with the names of at least five general officers recommended for appointment as a board of hearing together with a suggested place of meeting for the board, or a statement naming the available qualified officers requesting the War Department to make others available to bring the case to an expeditious conclusion. The War Department will publish the order appointing the board and will refer the records in the case to it.

c. After consideration by the board of hearing the proceedings and records in each case referred to it in which the officer is recommended for removal from the active list will be forwarded to The Adjutant General for referral to the board of review for appropriate action.

d. In cases where the board of hearing recommends retention on the active list the case will be forwarded through the initiating agency to The Adjutant General for disposition. Upon receipt by The Adjutant General the case will be closed.

e. After consideration by the board of review the cases with the recommendation of the board will be forwarded to the Secretary of War for final action.

6. SPECIFIC BOARD PROCEDURE. a. Except as otherwise prescribed herein, the boards for removal of officers from the active list will be governed by the applicable provisions of AR 420-5. Members of the board will be subject to challenge and the board will be sworn.

b. As officer selected to show cause for retention will be permitted to appear in person and be represented by counsel if he so desires before the board of hearing or review in his case and shall be at all stages of the proceedings allowed full access to and furnished copies of the records and data pertinent to his case and before the boards.

c. Testimony or evidence except efficiency records and WD AGO forms 66-1, 66-2 or 66-3 (officers qualification card) for and against the officer concerned will normally be presented in the form of depositions. Witnesses who are conveniently available may be heard in the case if desired by the board or the officer concerned, but, in any case, no expense to the Government will be incurred.

d. No individual shall sit as a member of more than one board in consideration of the case of any one officer.

7. RIGHTS OF THE OFFICER REQUIRED TO SHOW CAUSE FOR RETENTION. Commanders indicated in paragraph 5b upon notification that an officer under their jurisdiction has been selected to show cause for retention on the active list of the Regular Army will insure that the officer is apprised of his rights, as follows:

a. That he may submit his resignation as an officer of the Army as provided in AR 605-275 and that such submission will be considered as final and conclusive, if accepted.

b. If eligible, that he may apply for voluntary retirement under the provisions of AR 605-245 and that such application, if approved, will be final and conclusive.

c. That he may avail himself of the rights in a and b above at any time prior to his removal from the active list.

d. That he may appear in person and be represented by counsel if he so desires before any board of hearing or review, may present any evidence in his defense to the board, and shall be permitted at all stages of the proceedings full access to and furnished copies of records considered by the board pertinent to his case.

e. That he will be granted such time as is reasonable and necessary to prepare and present his case before the board of hearing, and in no case will this time be less than 30 days. Commanders will insure that all necessary time is afforded the officer concerned and will render all necessary assistance to expedite this action and to insure that the rights of the officer are protected fully.

8. The commanders in whose area the boards of hearing are being convened will forward to the board the required statement of the officer as to his desires and his rights for incorporation with the records of the case. These will be incorporated in the record of the case and there will be included in the forwarding endorsement a statement to the effect that the individual has been afforded full opportunity to prepare and present his case.

9. In the case of officers recommended for removal from the active list by the board of final review, the action of the Secretary of War will be final and conclusive.

Study Purchase and Distribution

Beginning 14 Oct. The Industrial College of The Armed Forces entered into a study of Purchase Policies and Distribution as subjects in the ten months course in Economic Mobilization. Purchase studies will include an analysis of procurement methods as practiced during World War II, with the major objective that of improving future procurement methods. Distribution studies will embrace a resume of available distribution facilities, and an analysis of distribution planning for future emergencies.

Purchase and Distribution are two of the more general fields of study planned for this academic year. Other fields in the course in Economic Mobilization are Orientation, Research and Development, Requirements, Production, Manpower, Foreign Resources, and Organization and Administration.

Sports Front

It certainly looks as though Army-Notre Dame will be the game of this or any other year. This, of course, is no secret; Yankee Stadium has been sold out for the 9 Nov. encounter for months, and unlike baseball games, there will be no bleacher seats thrown on sale the morning of the game. If you don't have a ticket, stay away from New York and listen to the broadcast in comfort.

Taking what is always a risk in football—discussing what will happen some weeks hence—let's see how this battle may shape up.

The Irish want to take this one; they want it more, probably, than any other game they've played in the last decade. Scoff all you like at the old college spirit, they have a proud football tradition at Notre Dame. This pride has taken more than somewhat of a lacing at the hands of the Cadets in the last two years. In fact never had a South Bend eleven been trounced by such lopsided scores by an opponent two years in a row until Army figuratively brought the House that Knute Bullt crashing about their ears in '44 and '45.

From Rockne football, where every play was a touchdown if perfectly executed, the Irish swing has been to a more conservative, midwestern brand of football, in which the offense figures on hitting off three to five yards at a clip. So far, the figuring has been eminently successful.

The Notre Dame club will play the best football it has in it. With the Irish five deep in experienced men, this should be a pretty fair brand. Except for Quarterback Johnny Lujack, who is reputed to be Frank Leahy's alter ego on the gridiron, Notre Dame's team is a welded unit, rather than a collection of standouts. And this unit will be giving its all come 9 November.

Who's going to win? That's a silly question, what with all the variables involved, and any sports experts who pretends to tell you accurately is talking through his hat. However, we'll crawl out on a limb two weeks hence, not to the extent of giving you the final score in advance, but to try to let you know some of the things that may happen.

Annual Physical Exam

Orders have been issued that annual physical examinations of all Regular Army officers will be resumed.

The order includes nurses, warrant officers, and retired officers recalled to active duty, but excludes former Regular Army warrant officers currently on duty holding AUS commissions.

The physical examinations will be of final type and will be accomplished during the first quarter of the calendar year at any medical installation equipped to perform examination of this type.

Should an examining authority find defects sufficiently disabling in personnel in a flying status to warrant appearance before a disposition board such appearance will be recommended in the report of the physical examination.

It is emphasized that the examinations will be conducted in a manner which will detect the presence of any abnormality which may become disabling or which may develop to a degree that will incapacitate the officer early in his career.

Details of the required physical standards are explained in War Department Circular 304.

Award of Roosevelt Medals

Four leaders in the armed forces of the United States in World War II and the man whose songs helped bolster morale in two wars will receive the Theodore Roosevelt Medals for 1946 at a memorial dinner in New York 27 Oct. in observance of the 88th anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birthday. The Roosevelt Awards this year go to: Irving Berlin was honored for "distinguished public service by a private citizen."

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., in the fields of National Defense, and General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, who receives the medal for the administration of public office as well as in the field of national defense.
